2-YEAR-OLD BOY LOST 5 DAYS IN BUSH

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—A 2-year-old boy was in Whitehorse General Hospital Wednesday after spending five days lost in heavy bush near Upper Liard in the Yukon, close to the British Columbia border.

Andy Lutz of Upper Liard was treated for frostbite to two toes but he says, "I wasn't scared. I've been hunting since I was a little kid." The boy, accompanied by his two dogs, was hunting rabbits with a .22-calibre rifle when he became lost.

Nuclear Force Agreed by NATO

PARIS (AP)—Members of the Atlantic alliance have agreed to establish a co-ordinated nuclear command, including French units, informed sources said today.

This report came as ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Org-ganization discussed the issue by the French government of American proposals for a multinational nuclear arm. However, it does not imply any retreat from President de Gaulle's avowed intention to build his own strictly national French nuclear force.

Informants said the command, which in effect would be a multinational force, would operate under orders of the commanding general of the NATO military headquarters in Europe. He is U.S. Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer.

These sources said the command would include NATO aircraft from Canada, France, Belgium, Holland, West Germany and Italy as well as Britain and the United States.

The atomic warheads would be furnished by the U.S. and would remain in American custody and under American control. He is U.S. Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer.

The disclosure followed talks by U.S. State Secretary Rusk with de Gaulle earlier this week in which the NATO nuclear problem was discussed.

Rusk also had a long discussion of the same subject with Foreign Minister Couve de Murville. This afternoon Rusk reported on it to the regular meeting of the NATO permanent council, this account said.

The U.S. Polaris-missile submarines assigned to the Mediterranean and the British V-bomber force would be co-ordinated as part of this new nuclear command, the sources said.

SCHEDULED FOR OTTAWA

The whole proposal, which U.S. allies including France have endorsed, will be formally adopted at the forthcoming NATO ministerial meeting in Ottawa, these same sources added.

As part of this plan, France has agreed to accept American nuclear warheads for weapons carried by two French aircraft squadrons stationed in West Germany.

The development implied a somewhat more tolerant view

'HE MUST BE KILLED'

Terrorists Threaten CNR Chief

MONTREAL (CP)—La Presse quotes a so-called "suicide-commando" of the Front de Libération Québécois (Quebec Liberation Front) as saying CNR President Donald Gordon "must be killed."

The French-language daily quotes the revolutionary as saying during a middle-of-the-night interview that Mr. Gordon is "the enemy No. 1 of French-Canadians."

Reporter Luc Beauregard wrote the revolutionary gave his name only as Claude and was accompanied by a black-haired woman companion during the interview, apparently in a hotel room.

The revolutionary is quoted as saying of Mr. Gordon: "If he makes another statement about French-Canadians he'll die before me. Gordon soon will have to find himself an ambassador's post somewhere. He hasn't long to live in Quebec."

Claude apparently shrugged off the possibility of death in the underground FLQ, which claims responsibility of a number of sabotage and near-sabotage attempts in Montreal and elsewhere in the Quebec province.

"MUST BE VICTIMS"

"Find me a revolution where blood has never flowed. There must be victims. A man like Donald Gordon, for example, must be killed."

"He repeats his insults about French-Canadians he'll die before me. Gordon soon will have to find himself an ambassador's post somewhere. He hasn't long to live in Quebec."

The revolutionary is quoted as saying the FLQ has about 50 members, including doctors, lawyers, painters, journalists and some women. There were no members of the French OAS (Secret Army Organization) in the group, now being hunted by police forces.

"The FLQ types are resolute men. If the English won't understand it will be the revolution. Yes, we are fascists and revolutionaries."

These meetings had been arranged several weeks ago in response to requests for information about funds available to UBC for the year 1963-64.

Ottawa Expects Liberals To Take Reins Next Week

Crucial Cabinet Talks Thursday

(Special to the Times)

OTTAWA—The national capital today is marking time until the service vote from Monday's election is counted, but all indications are that John Diefenbaker will resign as prime minister this weekend and turn the reins of government over to Liberal chieftain Lester Pearson.

These were today's significant developments:

1. Mr. Pearson said he will line up his prospective cabinet over the weekend.

2. Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson flew into Ottawa today and said that while Mr. Diefenbaker has the constitutional right to remain as prime minister, he has neither the "technical nor moral right" following his defeat at the polls. This seemed to indicate to observers that Social Credit would not give him the support he would need to stay.

3. Mr. Diefenbaker was flying back to Ottawa for a cabinet meeting Thursday when it is expected the crucial decision to surrender power will be discussed.

4. The NDP plans a caucus meeting in Vancouver to consider their strategy.

Pearson Looks To Service Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson, obviously confident he will be asked to form a government, said today he expects to make up his cabinet during the Easter weekend.

However, he told reporters he has not heard directly from Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mr. Pearson was spending today in his office in the Centre Block of the Parliament Buildings, where his aides said he was answering a flood of letters and telegrams "with his usual attendance to correspondence."

Liberal officials said they expect to receive results of the armed service vote Saturday, and are hopeful of a turnover in three ridings—which would give the Liberals a total of 131 seats.

The ridings are Hastings South and Lambton-Kent in Ontario and Rimouski in Quebec.

Mr. Pearson said he hopes to go to Toronto Thursday and attend the Stanley Cup hockey playoffs between the Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings.

'No Moral Right To Hold Office'

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson flew into Ottawa early today and told reporters he feels Prime Minister Diefenbaker may have the constitutional authority to remain in power but does not have the moral or technical right to do so.

He was replying in a Times telephone interview to a charge levelled by party leader Robert Thompson.

Mr. Thompson said at Ottawa that Socred candidates didn't get the provincial support in B.C. that they could have had.

"Perhaps that was a good strategy," he added, with a shrug. Canadian Press reported. There was no elaboration.

SURPRISED

Mr. Browne said: "I am very surprised at Mr. Thompson's criticism."

"I would say our B.C. candidates received every support. We sent our more than 100,000 pieces of election material during the campaign."

"Our B.C. candidates had a full campaign program behind them."

Joseph Bruch, president of Victoria Social Credit Constituency Association, said Greater Victoria's two Socred candidates—Ald. Millard

Two Leaders Going on TV

OTTAWA (CP)—The leaders of the Social Credit and New Democratic parties and representatives of the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties will be interviewed tonight on a CBC national television network program, the CBC said.

"Subsequent meetings of the board and sub-committees of the board have taken place. The board of governors has taken certain steps at this time, and will take such other action as it deems necessary."

The board's statement was issued following a meeting Tuesday with representatives of the faculty association, the alumni association and the alma mater society of UBC.

"These meetings had been arranged several weeks ago in response to requests for information about funds available to UBC for the year 1963-64.

Four Alternatives For Diefenbaker

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker returns to Ottawa by air today to face a second-best parliamentary position bestowed by Monday's general election.

While he and his wife read personal telegrams, he also studied the election results.

WILL DECIDE FUTURE

The final picture—including the service vote which takes a week to compile—will decide his future course of action, he emphasized.

He has four apparent constitutional alternatives open—he can attempt to continue, resign and suggest Governor-General

Vanier seek another to form a government, try to form a coalition with one of the other three parties or ask the governor-general to dissolve Parliament for another election, which would be the fifth in six years.

End Arms Race, Build UN, Pope Appeals to World

(Times News Services)

VATICAN CITY—Pope John XXIII today appealed to "men of goodwill" all over the world for an end to the arms race and the equal and simultaneous reduction of arms stockpiles.

He urged, too, that the United Nations be given the structure and means to safeguard world peace.

The pontiff, in his important 15,000-word encyclical "pacem in terris" (peace on earth), called for a ban on nuclear weapons and said a "general agreement should eventually be set off by some uncontrollable and unexpected chance."

He added:

"Even though the monstrous power of modern weapons acts as a deterrent, it is to be feared that the mere continuance of nuclear tests, undertaken with war in mind, will have fatal consequences for life on the earth."

The Pope called for the deterrent of arms equality to be replaced by universal acceptance of the fundamental principle

"that the true and solid peace of nations consists not in equality of arms but in mutual trust alone."

Writing as the "vicar on earth of Jesus Christ" and as "interpreter of the very profound longing of the entire human family," the pontiff be-

Playing musical chairs with whistles appears to be the current hobby of the CPR's steamship bosses.

When the Princess of Nanaimo left this coast for the Atlantic, she left her whistle here, to be installed in Princess Patricia.

Only it wasn't exactly the Nanaimo's whistle—SHE inherited it from the late and much-lamented Princess Victoria.

Now that P of N has arrived at Halifax and been renamed Princess of Acadia, whistle-happy CPR executives are trying to figure out how to install the tooter from the now-defunct Princess Helene in the Acadia.

The only hitch is the difference in steam pressures generated by the two ships, but CPR technicians are working on the problem.

Whistling, of course, while they work.

Shocked, the hockey buff replied, "My gawsh—you probably voted for Diefenbaker."

C. P. "Chess" Lyons, former officer in charge of historic parks with the department of conservation and recreation, left this week for a three-month movie-making and exploration expedition in Mexico.

His plan is to make a first-class movie of Mexico which will not only include the country's scenery, but its birds, rare plants and animals.

While in Mexico he will team up for a short period with bird expert Dave Stirling of the Victoria Natural History Society, and search for rare tropical birds.

Chess, who resigned as a B.C. park official to take up free lance writing, lecturing and making wildlife movies, is especially fond of Mexico.

"It's a wonderful country," he said. "I like the people. I have been looking forward to this trip for months."

He said his proposed movie will probably take more than three months to make.

"I will have to return there during another season," he said.

The Pacific National Exhibition is looking for a name for its new $1,040,000 Livestock Show Building and will give $500 cash to the person who comes up with the right one.

Since construction began a year ago, PNE directors and staff have been constantly queried on its proposed name. It was finally agreed to let the people of B.C. decide.

The contest started Monday and will officially close May 31. Entries received after that date will not be considered.

The new building has already become an architectural curiosity, although its doors will not officially open until the first day of the exhibition, Aug. 17.

Scores of trade journals across Canada have featured it as their cover story. Articles with accompanying pictures have been published in Swedish and Estonian papers.

Major interest-provoking aspect of the 50,000 square foot structure is its dome-shaped roof, claimed by its designers to be the lightest steel and membrane roof of its size in the world.

Minor Parties In Key Position

Ottawa (CP) — Although political office eluded the Social Credit and New Democratic parties in Monday's general election, they emerged with a firm grasp on political power.

Some observers contend that the two parties hold the key to future political developments, including Prime Minister Diefenbaker's choice between meeting the 265-seat House of Commons with his 96 Conservatives or resigning to make way for the 24 Progressives and four others.

Mr. King acted on the grounds that he could count on the support of the Progressives and the Conservatives couldn't.

The second precedent was in 1957 when the Conservatives won 112 seats and toppled the Liberals from office after 22 years in power. The Liberals elected 105 members, the CCF 25, Social Credit 19 and others 24 in the 265-seat House.

Others, including men close to the prime minister, look for him to resign after announcement of service vote results this weekend. One put it: "I know him well enough to know that he'll do the right thing—and the right thing is to avoid an alliance with those two parties."

Those who feel that the decision rests with the 24 Social Credit and 17 NDP members say there are two precedents to guide the prime minister in the present situation.

The first Mr. Diefenbaker

"I cannot speak for Social Credit organizations outside this constituency," Mr. Bruch said, "but I understand our young Social Creditors were provincially more active than they have ever been."

AGREES

Mr. Browne said he agreed with Mr. Thompson's statement that even if deputy leader Real Caouette wanted to make some changes in the party's structure, he could not do so without a national convention.

There were earlier reports that Mr. Caouette might bow out as deputy national leader. Other reports said Mr. Caouette wants to replace Mr. Thompson as leader.

Mr. Thompson was asked if this meant there would be structural changes within the party.

"If there are, it is not up to us. We would have to have a national convention to do that," Mr. Thompson was quoted as stating.

The next Social Credit national convention now is scheduled for 1965.

Mr. Thompson said he is disappointed in Social Credit's election performance. The party retained four Western seats and elected 20 in Quebec six fewer than in 1962.

'You Can't Sneer at Uncle Sam'

NEW YORK (CP) — Lester B. Pearson is congratulated by The New York Herald Tribune today for providing a "blistering reminder that the Progressive Conservatives can not win Canadians all the time by sneering at Uncle Sam."

In two forthright editorials devoted to the federal election in Canada Monday, the Herald Tribune accuses Prime Minister Diefenbaker of "political bigotry," but says nevertheless Diefenbaker's anti-American slogans and hurled them back received a majority. Canada again faces a period of weak and precarious government.

This editorial is headlined Yank, Don't Go Home.

The second, directly below the first, carries the headline: We Have Treated Canada Shabbily. Blame for this is laid in turn in the lap of President Kennedy, Defence Secretary McNamara, and the state department.

The newspaper says the first result was President Kennedy's appeal to the Canadian Parliament, "over Prime Minister Diefenbaker's head," to join the hemisphere "in an alliance for economic progress."

The idea was sound, says the editorial, but the time and the place were wrong.

The editorial also deals with the "fat-headed" state department press release concerning Canadian defence policies, followed by McNamara's comment that, if nothing else, Canada's two Bonaventure bases would serve to draw Soviet rocket fire in the event of nuclear war.

Labelling this sequence of events "gratuitous provocation, if not downright inattention to diplomatic duty," The Herald Tribune says that "however thin we consider the Canadian skin, Canadians have a right to expect a better brand of statesmanship from the United States."

FACES TROUBLE

The Times says in an editorial that because no party

SHIFT INDICATED?

The newspaper says the setbacks received by the minority parties indicates "a small shift towards the more stable two-party system of the past and the outsets."

While the outcome is undoubtedly disappointing, says the editorial, there are some encouraging features. Chief among these is "the utter failure of M. Real Caouette to make any further progress in Quebec."

The newspaper says there is a real possibility that a Liberal-NDP coalition "would prove to be more than a stop-gap government" with the New Democratic Party abstaining on the defence issue.

The Manchester Guardian says one of the main reasons, apart from the defence issue and personal feelings, for the Liberal plurality was the high rate of unemployment in Canada.

"Few governments in advanced democratic countries have managed to survive abnormally large unemployment without at least being able to show substantial success in reducing it."

"Whatever the final combination, Canada again faces a period of weak and precarious government. This is bad for the country and, because of our close links, for the United States."

SHOWN TO DOOTSON JURY

Heavy Iron Bar Possible Weapon, Doctor Testifies

A heavy iron bar which may have been used in beating Robert Robinson, 65-year-old employee at Colquitz Mental Hospital, was shown to a 12-man jury in B.C. Assize Court Tuesday.

It was entered as evidence in the trial of Peter Howard Dootson, 35-year-old psychiatric aide at the hospital, who is charged with attempting to murder Robinson in the staff quarters by beating him with a blunt instrument and setting fire to him.

Dr. J. F. B. Cupples said the iron bar could have been used to inflict severe wounds to Robinson's face and head.

Severe Blow to Left of Head

The face has superficial burns, but the skin around the left ear and cheek was badly charred. There was a break in the skin at the top of the left ear.

Dr. Cupples said Robinson's left eye was blackened, indicating that he might have received a severe blow to the left side of the head.

Due to the severity of the burns, he said, Robinson's head was badly swollen.

Defense counsel Alan Bigelow asked Dr. Cupples if some

Possibly Caused by a Fall

Mr. Bigelow: "Would they be as consistent with a fall to the ground as a blow from a bar?"

Dr. Cupples: "I would say less consistent. They might possibly have been caused by a fall against a piece of furniture."

Mr. Bigelow suggested that, if a man were to fall asleep while smoking and woke to find his mattress on fire, his movements would likely be more violent than if there was no fire.

"Would you say Robinson's ear would have been torn more easily if it had been in the fire?" he asked Dr. Cupples.

The trial continued today.

Harkness Supported For Tory Leadership

TORONTO (CP) — John Bassett, publisher of The Telegram, says he would support former defense minister Douglas Harkness as the next leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

Mr. Bassett, interviewed on the Pierre Burton Hour on CTV Tuesday night, said if Prime Minister Diefenbaker does not form a government and resigns as party leader, "the problem will be to find a leader who can build back the traditional support in Ontario that is now lacking so drastically, and yet retain the support of the Prairies."

George Hees, who resigned as minister of trade and commerce in February and did not contest Monday's election "doesn't have a chance" for the party leadership. "The Western leaders of the party would vote for him."

The Telegram, traditionally Conservative, supported the Liberals in Monday's election.

'Political Explosion' If John D. Had Won

WASHINGTON (CP) — Congressman Wayne Hays said Tuesday the return of a Diefenbaker government in the Canadian election might have led to a political explosion between Canada and the United States.

The Ohio Democrat, member of the congressional foreign affairs committee, said a lot of his congressional colleagues had been restrained from making any public rejoinder to what Hays described as "abusive statements" against the U.S. by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"Had Diefenbaker been voted back in, relations between the two countries might have deteriorated," Hays said in an interview.

"My colleagues might no longer have been restrained. Their criticism of the Conservative administration might have provoked new attacks from the Diefenbaker group. One thing could have led to another and no one could tell what might finally have resulted."

SENEGAL CHARGES PORTUGAL AT UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Senegal today asked for an urgent meeting of the United Nations Security Council to consider its charges that Portuguese war planes have repeatedly violated Senegalese air space, including an alleged bombing of a frontier village Tuesday night.

The request was made during a 15-minute meeting between acting Senegalese mission chief Abdou Ciss and the current Security Council president, Ambassador Liu of Nationalist China.

Following the meeting in Liu's office, Ciss said: "Acting on instructions of President Leopold S. Senghor, I have placed before the Security Council chairman a strong protest against repeated violations of our air space by Portuguese military aircraft, and the bombing of Bouniak."

"Ambassador Osman Soce Diop, who has been away in Dakar, is returning here by air Thursday to handle our complaint."

Portugal emphatically rejected the Senegalese accusations that four planes early Tuesday dropped bombs on the village of Bouniak.

Separatist Challenges Pearson

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Chaput, leader of the Separatist Parti Republicain du Quebec (Quebec Republican Party) issued a challenge to Lester Pearson today in the belief that the Liberal leader will be Canada's next prime minister.

He said he was not certain of the extent of Robinson's facial injuries because "the skin was so badly burned it would have hidden any bruises that might have been there."

Dr. Cupples attended Robinson in the emergency ward at St. Joseph's Hospital soon after he was found battered and burned in his room at the Colquitz Mental Hospital early on Oct. 19 last.

He said he was not certain of the extent of Robinson's facial injuries because "the skin was so badly burned it would have hidden any bruises that might have been there."

Dr. Cupples said the blow received was hard or not," Mr. Bigelow suggested.

"I would think it was a hard blow," Dr. Cupples replied.

Mr. Bigelow: "Would you say Robinson's injuries were consistent with a blow from a fist as a blow from a bar?"

Dr. Cupples: "Yes."

The doctor agreed. At Mr. Bigelow's request he then looked at Dootson's eyes and confirmed that the left pupil was larger than the right. He said this could be the result of an iridectomy (eye operation).

"Would you say smoke would affect the eye of a person who had had an iridectomy?" asked Mr. Bigelow.

"I would expect so," the doctor replied.

The trial continued today.

'Think Canadian'

THE NATION WILL AWAIT and has every right to expect Mr. Diefenbaker's early resignation. Reports that he intends to cling to power, if he can, by a cynical deal with the splinter parties are, or should be, incredible.

It is quite irrelevant to quote, as some politicians are quoting, the precedent of 1925 when the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King elected fewer members than the Conservative Party under the late Arthur Meighen but continued to govern.

In the first place, the Conservative Party itself has always denounced and, in the election of 1926, made a definite issue of Mr. King's retention of power.

In the second place, Mr. King was assured, in 1925, of the Progressive Party's support without any question. From 1921 onwards the Progressive Party had always supported the Liberal government and demonstrated its support by refusing in 1925 to become the official opposition though it outnumbered the Conservatives in Parliament.

There was no serious gap between Liberal and Progressive principles but today there is an unbridgeable gap of principle between the Diefenbaker government and the two splinter parties. The Prime Minister has repeatedly denounced them both and they have repeatedly denounced him.

A marriage of convenience between Conservatives, Social Crediters and New Democrats would not only be cynical. It would assure an unstable government dictated by minorities. It would be a process of blackmail. It would thwart the will of the nation as expressed at the polls. It would be nothing but abduction of Parliament.

At this decisive moment Mr. Diefenbaker has a grave but clear responsibility. If he is sincere in saying that he seeks only the welfare of the nation his responsibility is to hand the government of Canada over to the Liberal Party, the only party which, though just short of a majority in Parliament, can possibly provide stable government.

If Mr. Diefenbaker should defy the nation's will with the connivance of the splinters, by giving them what they want and abandoning all pretence of Conservative principles, he might retain power of a sort for a little while. In so doing he would sow the whirlwind. He would invite and undoubtedly

Danger Looms Again

ALTHOUGH REPORTS ARE fragmentary and without official details, the outbreak of fighting in Laos threatens a renewal of the crisis which for so long held southeast Asia on the brink of explosive conflict.

The Laotian civil war which, supplemented by military aid from both East and West, kept the tiny country in flames throughout 1961 and part of last year, was eventually settled by a Geneva accord which received Soviet and United States support. It established a compromise government composed of rightist, leftist and neutralist elements and set up an International Control Commission to supervise the peaceful implementation of the agreement.

That this uneasy arrangement receive not long hence the nation's anger against the Conservative Party.

The Social Credit and New Democratic Parties have their responsibilities, too. If they are sincere in their promise to support stable government and avoid another early election they must accept the general verdict of the people who have voted no confidence in them—less confidence, in fact, than they were given last June.

They have no right, by a back-stairs bargain with Mr. Diefenbaker, to force their rejected policies on the nation and make government the prisoner of minorities. In any case, Mr. Douglas has solemnly pledged himself to support the largest elected group in Parliament and the nation will expect him to fulfil that pledge.

If he does not, and if Social Credit joins him in maintaining a government repudiated by the people twice within a year, then at a date not far off another election undoubtedly will be precipitated. And for that election, and all the chaos preceding it, the splinter parties will be responsible.

Another fact is worth noting. Mr. Pearson has no responsibility for national policy today. He will have none until he is called to office, if he is called. But he has a binding responsibility for the policies which he submitted to the voters in the election and which the largest part of the nation endorsed.

He cannot be expected to change them merely to secure the support of the splinters. His responsibility, if he becomes Prime Minister, is to introduce his own policies into Parliament and Parliament's responsibility will be to approve or reject them. Both Mr. Pearson and Parliament must take the consequences.

In this new situation the proper precedent and the honorable course was set by Mr. St. Laurent in 1957. Though he had won more votes than the Conservative Party, he immediately resigned in favor of Mr. Diefenbaker when the Conservatives elected the largest group to Parliament.

For the vital interests of the nation, for the good of his own party, for the honor of his own place in history, Mr. Diefenbaker is bound to follow that precedent today. Canada awaits his assurance that he will not try to play games with the democratic process. As he said during the campaign, it is time to "Think Canadian."

Competition In Big Business

ANY CANADIANS WHO BELIEVE that big oil companies, big gas companies and big electric power companies, because of their bigness, operate in a realm immune to competition might profitably read the report in the current Maclean's magazine.

It tells the story of robust competition in eastern Canada between the producers of the three fuels in their quest for the home-owners' heating business.

One major oil company offered free servicing for oil burning furnaces which use its products. Competitors followed. The other industries, gas and electricity, launched customer inducement plans with valuable bonuses to purchasers.

A Touch of Nostalgia

IN AN AGE OF SPACE TRAVEL, nuclear power and electronic marvels it is rather startling to be reminded that there are places on the earth—in fact, in one of the world's greatest scientific and industrial nations—where Darwin's theory of evolution is still a matter of moral and theological dispute.

In Tennessee, where 38 years ago the famous Scopes trial engaged world attention, it is still illegal to teach evolution in the schools. Two young women teachers in Memphis have just run into this fact of Tennessee life; they tried to hold a class debate on the subject but were forbidden to do so.

Some of the comments arising from the case indicate that some Tennessee minds, at least, have not changed since the day of the teacher, Mr. Scopes, Mr. William Jennings Bryan, who attacked him, and Mr. Clarence Darrow, who defended. Indeed, such continuation of the mental status quo might well be offered as an argument against evolution. Some things, apparently, just don't evolve.

STILL THE GRIP OF PENURY

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

Murmurs of Discontent From the People

IN Imperial China it was as impolite as it was inadvisable to speak in the presence of others of the eventual death of the Emperor or the end of his reign, but since the customary expression of loyalty was to wish him 10,000 years, men spoke euphemistically of the time when "ten thousand years...will have passed."

However, despite accusations that the Chinese Communist Government is one which exploits the fear even more than the enthusiasm of the masses, the Chinese observe no such scruples today. Morale is low enough in the villages of South China for people to begin asking how much longer this reign of hardship is going to last.

In one commune an ex-priest with business acumen is using a do-it-yourself fortune-telling machine which, among other things, has predicted that Mao's China will endure for 7,000 days and then fall apart. This means that it should collapse some time in 1968.

Conditions in China have nevertheless improved steadily during the past six months, and the millions have less cause for complaint. Peasants are no longer treated like infantry recruits and obliged to lead a strictly regimented communal life within their communes.

Instead they are encouraged to raise pigs, poultry, vegetables and fruit which they can sell in local "free markets," and since the government is now giving every priority to agricultural production, there is more to eat in both town and country.

Compared with those of one year ago, the free market prices of essential foods have in many cases dropped by half, and in the case of rice by two-thirds in some parts of the country. A South Chinese shoemaker whose wife works in a factory and whose three sons are at school fled to Hong Kong recently and gave details of the family budget.

The working couple had earned about £18 a month and received another £8 from relatives in Hong Kong. They spent £14 on food for the household, about £2 on restaurant meals and £4 10s. on other consumer necessities. Schooling took £2 a month, rent another £2 and what was left was saved after haircuts had been paid for and 15s. squandered on entertaining.

But they were entitled to 35 lbs. of rice each, and 10 oz. of meat. Sugar, fish and soya sauce were also rationed, but most items could be obtained on the free market as well. There were bad gaps—no fruit, no milk, sometimes only two eggs a month.

They could buy no more than four feet of cloth each during all of 1962, cigarettes were hard to find, and clothing was usually dear. A pair of poor quality leather shoes cost £2.

Almost anything from toilet soap to umbrellas could be bought with "commodity coupons"—but a worker was only issued with one coupon a month, if that. Five boxes of matches cost one coupon, a wristwatch 60.

Times have nevertheless changed since the lean years—1960, 1961 and 1962—when millions were sick through malnutrition, but China is still in the grip of drab penury. Even last summer the Peking crowd was clad in dull workday cottons, although in 1958 the streets were full of girls in bright print blouses.

The capital is scarred by numerous neglected building sites and abandoned, half-constructed blocks. In restaurants customers pull out plastic bags and tip whatever they have not eaten into them, according to foreign observers. This is not for the dogs, for they have long since been killed off.

Smugglers trade not in gold, but in concentrated food items like saccharine. Private persons do not own cars, but in any case the Chinese petrol is of poor quality, quickly ruins motors, and is in short supply.

The burden of austerity is almost impossibly lifting, and a better life may well lie ahead. But for the ordinary Chinese man-in-the-street, it is lifting all too slowly. People are apathetic and suspicious of the future.

In recent months they have only displayed genuine enthusiasm in public for the Sino-Indian cease-fire — they had dimly feared that the border clash would develop into something like a second Korean war.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

The Public Should Know

Three months ago at the Law Courts when I was sworn in as a member of the Greater Victoria Board of School Trustees, I did not foresee the vast range of questions on education that would be presented to me by members of our community. These questions have covered topics from the matter of flags that fly from our schools to the more uniform education on a federal basis.

Many people are interested in vocational training facilities in the district and questions have been asked about a day school for adults.

I was surprised to learn that many citizens do not know how many trustees serve on our school board nor how they take office to this elective but voluntary position.

This emphasizes the fact that more information should be made available to the public and the responsibility lies with the school board which should enlist the assistance of the department of education in satisfying this need.

Trustees, whose actions result in the expenditure of funds, are taking money from people's pockets and have a duty in reporting what is being done so the taxpayers may decide whether or not those actions are justified.

The newspapers may consider that trustees are not co-operating in making this information available and this attitude can be justified, but some progress is being made. Trustees could indicate their sincerity by making periodic reports to the press. This information may not catch the public eye if it is not the type of news that warrants a headline but it would certainly serve as an interim measure until an acceptable policy on public information is established.

If example is necessary I would mention London University, in England, at one time acting as an examining body for great numbers of candidates taught by extra-mural tutors. I was one such candidate.

It is to be hoped that the new group of tutors will be given a fair chance to prove itself worthy.

Bastion Square

Your paper of Oct. 24, 1962, carried a painting showing what could be done to create beauty and charm in Bastion Square. It is a shock to read this idea may be shelved.

May Victorians get behind this idea of an art centre in beautiful "Old World" setting.

Too, we are dismayed and surprised that the lovely maritime museum plans to move from Esquimalt, where the setting, the buildings proximity to the Dockyard hold as much interest as the exhibits. We like to feel each visit there is something changed to see, but not the setting, it's one of the interesting things left to enjoy.

Symbol of an Easter Ritual

In the rain of last weekend a single trillium bowed its immaculate blossom toward the path leading to the cabin at the lake. Pearls of water formed on the veins of its broad leaves, fed on the drizzle, grew and rolled gently from their green platforms to drop on the spongy duff of the forest floor.

This is our symbol of spring at Shawinigan, the trilliums that appear shyly in ones or twos and then bloom in sudden profusion among the trees, star-studding the ground and giving their own decoration to Easter.

We bestow a sentimental affection on the flower for what it and its season typify to us. When the children were very young, Easter at Shawinigan was their special festival, the occasion for opening the shack and for childhood's fantasy of the mystic rabbit who brought chocolate and colored eggs.

With very little people who stumbled merrily over roots and lumps on the uneven ground, we used to range the woods to collect hanks of the moss we called druid's beard hanging from the dead limbs of old firs. From it we fashioned nests in large soup bowls and these we placed by the children's beds as they retired.

During the night the nests were filled with brightly-tinted candy eggs, jelly-beans, one large chocolate egg and perhaps even a chocolate chick or bunny.

Morning brought its delight at the small pagan miracle, with large eyes in small faces shining in happy fulfillment of a child's trust.

And in the forenoon, when day had brushed some darkness from the woods, we went rummaging with the children on a hunt for hard-boiled eggs of their own coloring—and for one very important gold-wrapped egg that was the grand prize.

This was our custom, year by year, through the time when an older girl grew more worldly wise and joined parents in the charade so dear to a younger brother and sister.

The time is long past since those children lived out the fancy of the Easter Bunny. Two of them in their own homes will manufacture the miracle again for a new generation.

Yet we who are older will make our pilgrimage to the lake again this weekend, noting the trilliums which have sprung into bloom in recent days, catching sight of druid's beard festooning old fir limbs, where it shall remain as nature intended, and marking the arrival of another spring.

A merganer and a pair of loons will share the water with the mudhens. A robin will sing its rain song from a tree. The swamp willow will swell toward its burgeoning.

We shall watch for the swallows, hoping to catch the artistry of their flight lines swooping above the water. At night we will look for the stars, listen to hear if the frogs have set up their chorus, and, in daytime, we will wait for the arrival of "Cheeky" the squirrel, who should be scolding us about now for invading the privacy of his acorn.

In the evening we will sit by an open fire that drives chill from a still-unfinished room, seeing old scenes in the flames and offering mute thanks for the pleasure little people in years gone by gave to us through their enjoyment of the family Easter ritual.

LONDON LETTER

Workers Don't Like Cheques

LONDON — Not everybody is happy about the fact that a law of 1833 laying down that wage-earners must be paid in coin of the realm has now been set aside.

Getting their pay in the form of a cheque doesn't appeal to many workers—and their wives—always accustomed to getting cash which they can split up into hire-purchase expenses, household expenses, spending money, etc.

Having never had a bank account—such things are for the "upper crust"—they find something awesome, even frightening about entering a bank.

So it remains to be seen just how many of the country's 15,000,000 wage earners will avail themselves of the choice of being paid by cheque—a change put through as much as anything to help curb payroll robberies.

Reyburn

But those who will suffer most workers take wholeheartedly to the cheque idea are the gentlemen who have long been providing a certain type of service outside large places of employment each payday.

These men have vans equipped to provide workers who wish to take advantage of the service, for a fee, with pay packets the same as those used by the firm concerned.

On the fresh packet is entered a sum less than the actual amount. The worker pockets the difference and when he gets home hands over to his unsuspecting wife the seemingly genuine pay envelope.

The men who run this hoodwink aren't at all in favor of cheques. To carry on their service they would have to forge new cheques. And that's illegal!

COMMON MARKET mathematics, as reported in one of the Paris newspapers: "As we understand it, the Six have been reduced to two because the five failed to enlarge it into seven."

That would mean penalizing a small group of private citizens for a kind of activity in one nation that is acceptable in others.

Because of the Nazi murder of millions of Jews, West German politicians shy away from criticizing Israel. It might be interpreted abroad as anti-Semitism.

NANAIMO — The Hub City Kiwanis Club has agreed to take over the development of Beach Estates park, a 13.7-acre area lying between Departure Bay Road and Northfield Creek, with a shoreline on Departure Bay, next to the ferry terminal.

By VICTOR ZORZA

LONDON—Chinese communists have now carried the ideological war into the enemy camp by distributing inside the Soviet Union anti-Khrushchev pamphlets printed in Russian.

These are in the form of translations of recent articles in the Peking press, including a 210-page booklet about their differences with Palmiro Togliatti, the Italian communist leader (whom they have built up as a man of straw in the image of Khrushchev in order to knock him down without identifying the Soviet leader).

Some weeks ago, the Chinese ambassador in Moscow openly called together communist foreign correspondents resident in the Soviet capital to present the Chinese case to them but the latest reports say that the embassy has also been sending its anti-Khrushchev pamphlets through the mail to various addresses in the Soviet Union.

Chinese students in the Soviet Union, several hundred of whom are attending universities in various parts of the country, are also distributing pamphlets among their Soviet associates.

Previously, the Chinese had confined themselves to telling Russian listeners to Peking radio that they could obtain copies of such articles by writing to a Peking address. The new twist in the propaganda war carries with it considerable dangers, for similar activities by Albanian diplomats and students in Moscow served Khrushchev as a pretext for the expulsion from Russia of virtually all Albanians there, and for the severance of diplomatic relations.

Khrushchev's seemingly excessive sensitivity to the distribution of polemical Communist literature in Russia apparently stems from the well-founded fear that in purely Marxist terms the Chinese case is difficult to answer.

While there need be little doubt that on this issue most politically literate Russians would support Khrushchev against Peking, an important minority would nevertheless accept the validity of the Chinese arguments.

CANNOT BE IGNORED

Since the basic issue between Peking and Moscow relates the major issues of foreign policy, such as the attitude of the Communist bloc to the west in general and the United States in particular, which is also believed to be the subject of differences within the Soviet leadership itself, the danger of publicity inside Russia for Chinese views cannot be ignored by Khrushchev.

Issues of this kind are, of course, freely discussed at the highest level of the Soviet leadership; but the general public and even the party of officialdom is kept away from any participation in such discussions out of fear that the public influence on policy formation could damage the totalitarian power structure.

But the "dogmatic" Chinese case is getting increasingly through to the Soviet people. In doing so, it may produce no less potent a ferment in Russia than the "revisionist" or "liberal" argument seeping through from the west, not because of the merits of the "dogmatist" argument but because of the unaccustomed need for genuine discussion of genuine policy issues. This is seen most clearly in examples available from satellite countries, such as Hungary. There, the Communist authorities found it necessary to call together foreign students at Budapest University to defend Khrushchev against "dogmatist" attacks. Chinese students were present at these meetings, and they tried to put the Chinese case to their student colleagues even to the extent of circulating Hungarian language leaflets in student circles.

Outside the Communist bloc, a good example is the split in the Belgian Communist party,

GROUP BACKS TARIFF CUTS

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP)—The Pacific Northwest Trade Association urged Tuesday that the United States and Canadian governments establish an international commission to seek relaxing of trade barriers.

A resolution adopted unanimously suggested it should seek to "minimize short term readjustments" from any lowering or elimination of tariffs.

VANCOUVER FIRM PLAINTIFF

Bank Sued for $249,724

BOISE (AP)—Union Contractors, Ltd., of Vancouver filed suit in U.S. federal court Tuesday asking a judgment in the amount of $249,724.50 which it contends was wrongfully deducted from its bank account.

The local chapter of the Associated Travellers' Club, will present a cheque for $100 to the Victoria Branch of the Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children, Thursday morning.

Names as defendants in the action were the First National Bank of Bonners Ferry, Idaho, and J. H. McNally, named as president of the bank. Also named was the Bank of Idaho which purchased the Bonners Ferry Bank in 1962.

The plaintiff corporation alleged that McNally deducted from its account sums of money to cover personal expenses drawn by members of the firm and failed to credit to its account several deposits in 1958 and 1959.

The suit also contends that McNally charged to the corporation's account interest payments and note payments that were not obligations of the plaintiff.

The local chapter of the Associated Travellers' Club, will present a cheque for $100 to the Victoria Branch of the Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children, Thursday morning.

The presentation will be made at 11 a.m. in Spencer House, Cook Street, by travellers' directors Jim Fisher and Carl Arrell. W. T. Lawson, vice-president of the AEDC will receive the cheque.

'CAN'T END DETERRENT'

GENEVA (AP)—Britain said today both the Western powers and the Soviet Union will retain their nuclear deterrent power until world disarmament has been achieved.

Joseph B. Godber, British minister of state, told the 17-nation disarmament conference that until world disarmament is completed, "both sides will continue to rely on the deterrent capabilities of nuclear weapons as the only way of preserving peace."

POPE

sought "especially those who have the responsibility of public affairs in spare no labor in order to ensure that world events follow a reasonable and human course."

Pope John indicated he hoped the United Nations eventually might become a strong world authority. But he did not specifically mention what peace-keeping means it should have at its disposal, such as a police force.

"A public authority having world-wide power and endowed with the proper means for the efficacious pursuit of its objective, which is the universal common good in concrete form, must be set up by common accord and not imposed by force."

Nations were "right in not easily yielding in obedience to an authority imposed by force, or to an authority in whose creation they had no part, or to which they themselves did not decide to submit by conscious and free choice."

'CAN'T FIND SOLUTIONS'

Pope John said a supra-national world authority must be considered because national leaders in the modern world are "on a footing of equality" and are "no longer capable of facing the task of finding an adequate solution to the problems."

"It is our earnest wish that the United Nations—in its structure and in its means—may become ever more equal to the magnitude and nobility of its tasks, and that the day may come when every human being will find therein an effective safeguard for the rights which derive directly from his dignity as a person, and which are therefore universal, inviolable and inalienable rights."

This is all the more to be hoped for since all human beings, as they take an ever more active part in the public life of their own political communities, are showing an increasing interest in the affairs of all peoples, and are becoming more consciously aware that they are living members of a world community."

The encyclical—or papal circular was the first of the 300 encyclicals issued since 1740 to be devoted exclusively to a systematic analysis of peace in all its aspects—political, social, theoretical, theological and practical.

It also was the first papal encyclical in history specifically addressed to non-Catholics as well as Catholics.

Although signed by the Pope Tuesday and made public today, the letter was dated Thursday, April 11. Pope John said he did this so it would carry the date of Holy Thursday.

the inquiry, which has been under way since March 6.

Said Mr. Skillings:

"It's all very well for members of the committee to have a Roman holiday at public expense—but I for one want to get off the payroll. I want to get back to business."

If anybody hasn't got the picture of this now, there's something wrong with their head."

Mr. Skillings said the $25 a day was "absolutely scandalous."

"We're wasting public money right now and everybody in this committee knows it."

'HE'S NUTS'

Replied Randolph Harding (NDP-Kaslo Slocan):

"If this is the type of holiday my friend thinks we enjoy—he's nuts."

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said Mr. Skillings' remarks were "almost sour-riously."

"I take my job seriously."

"This has been a witch-hunt from the beginning," Mr. Skillings shot back. "We have had solicitors going through the evidence with a fine toothed comb. They can find absolutely nothing—so what's the idea of continuing with this hearing?"

"In order to inquire, we've got to spend money," said inquiry counsel Lloyd G. McKenzie. "It's got to inconvenience the members of the committee. Let's forget other things and let's pursue the inquiry."

Mr. Gagliardi made his plea just before the adjournment.

"We have got millions of dollars worth of work—we just haven't been able to get at it. We've got work all over the province that the direction of construction must get to."

COSTS MILLIONS

"It could cost us millions of dollars because of lack of proper supervision at the top."

Top department officials who have been witnesses have remained as observers at the hearings and available for recall.

There are many who do not yet realize that, if the university is to provide teaching staff, facilities and adequate accommodation, much more remains to be done.

Mr. Gagliardi had "no comment" on whether or not he will take the stand.

The highways department lawyer, Angelo Branca, says that he is advising the minister not to testify.

Mr. Branca said the minister "has nothing to meet" in the allegations.

The evidence has disproved every charge that has been made."

PROBE UPROAR

Mr. McKenzie said that in fairness Mr. Gagliardi should be given the opportunity to speak last; he suggested the minister appear after Mr. Geery, probably Thursday.

Observers wondered what would happen if Mr. Gagliardi refused to testify, as suggested by his lawyer.

Chairman Corbett pointed out that if he is summoned and refuses, he could be held in contempt.

Location of Mr. Geery in Seattle came through Burnaby NDP member of the legislature Gordon Dowling, who originally produced affidavits making the graft charges.

Dan Campbell (SC—Comox) objected to the interference of someone "in the bleachers."

Strachan Attacks
Delay on Letters

Six hundred and fifty pieces of correspondence sparked a row at the highway graft probe Tuesday afternoon.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan complained that the correspondence should have been made available before witnesses were heard in the month-long inquiry.

The correspondence was three volumes of documents relating to Project 819, prime subject of the inquiry.

It was only produced Tuesday by inquiry counsel Lloyd G. McKenzie.

He said "only one piece of relevant material could be found in the letters and telegrams — evidence that there had been a 'multiplicity' of bid bonds by the contractor who got Project 819, L and M Logging."

The letters referred to three. The contractor finally succeeded in obtaining a letter of credit after his bonds were rejected.

Mr. Strachan complained that he had asked for the correspondence — the complete highways department file on 819 — right at the start of the hearings.

He said he wanted to look through it and it might be necessary to recall some witnesses.

Among the correspondence were letters of complaint to Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi from the B.C. Heavy Construction Association.

There was also a letter after the complaints from Mr. Gagliardi to the deputy minister of

$3 Million Hotel

GLASGOW, Scotland (CP) — Douglas Henderson of Toronto, head of Sheraton Motels Ltd., announced Tuesday his firm will build a £1,000,000 (about $3,000,000) luxury hotel at Prestwick airport. The new 150-bed hotel is part of a general expansion scheme for the airport about 30 miles southwest of here.

works in Ottawa saying there was nothing wrong with the disputed bid.

Earlier in the afternoon Vincent L. Gresty finished testimony he started at the morning session.

He said that while a highway employee he had told Mr. Gagliardi that he was not connected directly or indirectly to any company doing business with the government.

He admitted that he had not told Mr. Gagliardi that he had been a few months earlier.

He said he lost $17,000 through the association with Mid-City Construction a subcontractor on 819.

Mr. Gresty said he knew it would have been better not to be involved, but added: "Are we not free to invest our money in any channel we want?"

Little Town With Big Name Baffles English

LLANFAIRPWLWGNYNG-YLLGOGERYCHWYRNDROBWLLANTYSILIOLOGGOCH, Wales (AP) — Now stand back.

The above dateline, a Welshman said today, is a phoney.

Generations of Welshmen have proudly claimed the tongue-twister as the longest place-name in Britain.

But Dr. Ivorwerth Peate, curator of the Welsh National Folk Museum, said it's a fake.

Its real name is much more modest — only 12 letters instead of 58.

The story came out when sentimental Welshmen suggested that the village station, due to be closed under a railroad modernization plan, should be preserved and rebuilt in the museum grounds.

For Llanfairpwll had lived on its tourist trade and the curious folks who came just to buy the six-inch-long platform tickets at the little station.

Peate laughed at the idea that the station be preserved for posterity. And he told why.

Its real name he said, was Llanfairpwll — meaning St. Mary-by-the-Pool. In the 19th century a local tailor added 46 letters to the name, and so it became a short story — St. Mary's Church in the Hollow of the White Hazel Near to the Rapid Whirlpool of Llantysilio-of-the-Red-Cave.

"It was intended as a joke to baffle English people," said Peate, "and it succeeded admirably."

Gamblers Anonymous Spreads

By MIKE GAVIN
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A well-dressed man in his early 30s stood before a small group gathered in the basement of a church and calmly told of having fleeced his widowed mother out of the life savings she had "gathered a nickel at a time."

In a conversational tone he told of squandering the money in a poker game.

Next, a middle-aged businessman told of cheating customers and creditors to finance his unrequited love for roulette.

Still another said he forced his wife and child to exist on a diet of "red beans and rice" while he sat across the table eating the same things with enough money in his pocket for filet mignon.

"I couldn't touch my taw," he told the group and they nodded in mute agreement. The taw, in gambler's language, is betting capital.

As each speaker introduced himself he was given a warm round of applause, followed by another hand when he sat down after telling his story of "lies, loans and larceny."

FORMED BY PAIR

The listeners were all familiar with the "three Ls" of the strange affliction called compulsive gambling.

This was a meeting of Gamblers Anonymous, an organization formed in Los Angeles—ironically on Friday the 13th of September, 1957—by two compulsive gamblers.

Since that time the organization has grown in membership to more than 500 members of some 40 groups spread throughout the United States.

The members, who come from all economic, racial and religious backgrounds, have one common bond—their uncontrollable desire to bet.

The compulsion to gamble is a little-understood malady that is perhaps best summed up by

Board Fears Meat Depot Monopoly

Metro health chief Dr. J. L. W. Whitbread was instructed Tuesday by the Greater Victoria board to discuss a potential monopoly situation in the meat inspection field here.

He will take it up with the provincial agriculture department which has jurisdiction now.

Only Van Isle Meat Packers Limited has a government meat inspection service so far and some board members expressed fears this would result in a monopoly for the abattoir.

MAN KILLED

Dr. Whitbread said the situation resulted from accidental death of another abattoir operator who had been expected to qualify for the inspection service. He said there are indications a second qualified abattoir may open in the area.

Van Isle Meat Packers fee schedule for slaughtering cows is $7.50 or $8.50 a head, depending on number, which includes $1 for the government meat inspection, Dr. Whitbread said.

Dr. Edmund Bergler, who calls it "psychic masochism."

Dr. Bergler, author of The Psychology of Gambling, says compulsive gamblers have come to find a perverse pleasure in punishment.

WANT TO LOSE

In other words, while they think they want to win at gambling, actually they gamble to satisfy their deep-seated desire to lose.

The true compulsive gambler cannot quit any game a winner, Dr. Bergler said.

Most GA members come to their first meeting in answer to an ad in the personal column of a newspaper which asks "Do you have a gambling problem?"

The ads, telling where to go for further information, are financed by member contributions. There are no "dues-paying" members of GA.

A first cousin to Alcoholics Anonymous, GA depends for its success on a program which leads the compulsive gambler through three phases on the road to recovery.

First, he admits he is "powerless" over gambling. Through the help of others and much effort on his own part he next learns that while he cannot kick gambling alone, he can do it with the help of others. In the third, "mature" stage he shares his new strength with an "unreformed" gambler who has not yet learned that two hearts are better than one.

Newsmen Hide Sources, Found Guilty of Contempt

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Robert L. Taylor, president of The Philadelphia Bulletin, and Earl Selby, city editor, were found in contempt of court today for declining to name the source of a story to a grand jury.

Judge Bernard Kelley ruled, "there is no blanket privilege to a newsmen to refuse to testify under the Act of 1937."

This was a reference to a state law which, the Bulletin executives contended, granted newspaper men the right to decide to identify sources of information for stories.

Kelley set April 15 for sentencing. This was the first time the 1937 law had been tested in court.

The contempt of court cases involved 18 citations against Taylor, who also is general manager of the daily, and Selby.

CLAIM PRIVILEGE

They claimed privilege under the 1937 law when they appeared before a grand jury investigating charges of corruption in Philadelphia's city hall. The district-attorney, in seeking the contempt citations, questioned the legality of the 1937 act.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association and the Pennsylvania Association of Broadcasters filed briefs as friends of the court, opposing the contempt citations.

"The use of the privilege as a roadblock to legitimate inquiry is wholly unwarranted and contrary to the careful distinction drawn in the act," Kelley said.

Mayor, Mooney Lose Fight Against Private Hospital

Mayor R. B. Wilson, Ald. M. H. Mooney and a majority of opposing residents in the Fairfield-Chandler area Tuesday failed to persuade city council to protect the single family zoning classification of the hospital is needed.

A seven-to-two vote at a special meeting of council rezoned the property to commercial classification to allow construction of Glen Gary Private Hospital—the fourth within a half-mile radius.

The proposed rezoning was bitterly protested by a majority in the neighborhood and several aldermen said it was among the hardest decisions of their civic careers.

LOOK TO FUTURE

Ald. Lily Wilson said the hospital would improve the district and not lower property values as the residents claimed. She added city council had to look to the future when they would be old and perhaps needed private hospital care.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell said he made personal calls in the area and is convinced that the hospital is needed.

Ald. J. L. W. McLean, Ald. Toone and Ald. Cecil Parrott all said they were certain that the residents' fears were unfounded and they had shown no proof they would suffer by the rezoning.

However, Ald. Mooney countered that council was breaking faith with persons who had built homes in the area through trust that City Hall would not destroy its residential classification.

Ald. Wilson said everyone thought the private hospital was desirable but the only specific question facing council was where it should be located.

"I don't feel we should force this on the majority of people who live nearby," he said.

"I'm sure there are lots of areas in the city where this (hospital) could be established and it would take a very fine urban renewal type of project."

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

KANSAS CITY — Already exuberant Joe Pepitone, who is installed at first base for the Yankees, has become a legend among his own kind. The books don't commemorate such feats but Pepitone belonged to history the first day he appeared for spring practice with the Binghampton team in '60, which was his second full season in baseball. He became the first minor league ball player ever to bring his own boat to a training camp.

Although Pepitone only worked briefly in the American League last season, his name is in the guides. Against Kansas City, Pepitone struck two home runs in one inning which is a record shared by others. Originally an outfielder, Pepitone gives the impression—he is a natural first baseman who will eventually dominate the uncomplicated position.

The sport is populated by hicks who generally learn their trade on the grass of small towns. But Pepitone came to it on the asphalt of traffic-congested St. Mark's Avenue in Brooklyn. It was a metropolitan parody of the game that called to him and he played it with a rubber ball and used a sawed-off broomhandle as a bat.

Sewers Were Just Right for Bases

"I played stick ball all the time when I was a kid," explained Pepitone. "They threw the ball up on one bounce and one strike was out. It was six men to a side. The sewers were just right for bases. They made like a real diamond and the manhole covers were the bases and home plate."

Drinking a cup of soup in the clubhouse Tuesday after striking two home runs to help the Yankees open their campaign with an 8-2 victory over the Athletics, Pepitone reflected on the advantages of boyhood in the city streets.

"It did me good," said Pepitone. "You know how small the ball is in stick ball. It helped my timing . . . it gave me the quick bat and helped my eye. I didn't play with a baseball until I was 14. The name of the team was the Hillmarks. We had real uniforms and all. We sold a lot of chances on things we raffled off and bought our own uniforms. I sold most of my chances to my family."

At high school, Pepitone was captain of the baseball team.

"Then I got shot," he said. "It was the last class of the day. I jumped up fast to get my jacket in the back of the class. This kid I only knew from around the class. We never had an argument. I didn't even know him good. He stuck a gun in my stomach and said 'stick them up.'

I thought he was kidding around. The gun must have had a hair trigger. Bang, it went off. I was shot, but I didn't know it.

"I thought he fired a blank. I felt nothing. Then I saw a hole in my stomach, right under the heart. I ran out. The kid said he had nothing against me. He found the gun and didn't know it was loaded."

In the hospital, Pepitone's weight dwindled from 160 pounds to 116.

"But I had my best year when I got out of the hospital," Pepitone said. "I hit 10 home runs in 14 games. I was playing with the Nathan's Hot Dog team. That's named after a frankfurter stand in Coney Island. All the while I was being watched by Frank Novosek, the Yankee scout. He was hit to me since I was 14."

The Yankees gave him $25,000 as a bonus.

"I bought the boat," he said. "I always wanted one. But you should have heard the guff I got from the manager (Damon de Phillips) when I brought it to training camp. You learn a lot growing up."

Joe Takes Kidding About Vanity

He is a chatty fellow who often allows his interest to wander as he talks with coaches and base runners.

"I like to kid around," Pepitone explained. "You know, talk to the other guys. I want them to like me up here. What fun baseball is, swinging that bat. I love to clear those bases off with a base hit. I think it's easier to hit in the big leagues than in the minors."

It didn't depress him last season when the Yankees dropped him back to Richmond.

"I felt I should be down there," he said. "I wanted to be playing. That's all I wanted to do. Play. It didn't shake me up. I left the same day in a hurry so I could play with Richmond that night. I told the manager (Ralph Houk) he was right in sending me down."

The other players rib Pepitone about his vanity which he also ridicules.

"They say I fuss too much with my hair," he said. "Always fixing it. Once they put a full-length mirror in my locker. When I came back from Richmond last year, where do you think they put my locker? In the gents' room."

He laughed.

"Do you think they were trying to tell me something?" he asked.

Saliva Tests Favored For Two Other Steeds

WINNIPEG (CP) — Thirty-one horsemen Tuesday attended the first Canadian conference on racing. They represented racing interests from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Discussions were broken into four categories covering pari-mutuel regulations, saliva and urine service, security and investigation and uniformity of rules.

Both harness and jockey racing interests attended the one-day session.

Delegates agreed there should be a limit to the number of particular types of special features to be provided in a single racing day. For example: limiting daily doubles to two a program.

Dealing with saliva and urine tests provided by the federal government, delegates suggested that at least two horses besides the winner of an event be subjected to a saliva test.

There was discussion on whether it would be advisable to create a Canadian racing and investigation body.

Laver, Rosewall Lose Doubles, But Win Singles

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Rod Laver and Ken Rosewall, the Australian tennis stars, each won singles matches Tuesday night on their professional tour but dropped a doubles match to an American pair.

Laver defeated Earl Buchholz of St. Louis 8-6 and Rosewall beat Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, 8-6.

Buchholz and MacKay teamed to defeat the Australians 8-6.

Andres Gimeno, the Spanish star, defeated Louis Ayala, champion of Chile, 8-6.

Rosewall now has won 26 matches and lost seven on the tour. Buchholz is 20-13. Laver 19-14. Gimeno 16-17. MacKay 10-23 and Ayala 8-25.

Lean Winger Shares Glory With Duff In 4-2 Triumph

TORONTO (CP) — Some extra homework apparently taught Bob Nevin a good habit, one that helped shoot Toronto Maple Leafs into a one-game lead in their Stanley Cup final against Detroit Red Wings Tuesday night.

Leafs' manager-coach Punch Imlach kept Nevin after class at a practice session Monday, ordering the lean right winger to shoot pucks at the net for 15 minutes straight. Imlach was unhappy over Nevin's lack of goal production in recent games.

Tuesday night Nevin won at least an interim diploma, firing Toronto's third and fourth goals as they dumped the Red Wings 4-2 in the opener of the best-of-seven series.

Dick Duff also scored twice for Leafs.

BIG M HURT

All was not sunshine for the Leafs. Detroit defenceman Bill Gadsby checked left winger Frank Mahovlich in the penalty box and the Leafs' big gun went to hospital with a knee injury.

The extent of his injury or how long he might be out was not to be known until later today.

Talking of Nevin's extra shooting drill, Imlach said he was glad to see Nevin get the goals "because I had been giving him the blazes."

"I made him shoot for 15 minutes until he got tired of shooting. It may have helped tonight, but I don't think so. He was just due."

Nevin, quietly accepting congratulations after the game, showed no visible excitement although he didn't get a point in the Leafs' five-game semi-final series against Montreal Canadiens.

"I've been getting lots of chances, but they just haven't been going in," he said. "Tonight they just went in."

Duff, who scored his goals 19 seconds apart, the first when the game was only 49 seconds old, had similar remarks.

"Heck, if a few goals had gone in for me like that earlier, I would have had 25 or 35 over the season," he said. He had 16.

Duff credited defensive miseries by Detroit for his goals.

"On the first one Doug Barkley left the puck along the boards and Davey Keon fed it ahead to me," said Duff, who beat Detroit goaltender Terry Sawchuk with a 30-foot shot on the play.

Barkley also got Duff's thanks for the second goal at 1:08. "He just handed it to me at their blue line and I flipped it beneath Sawchuk's glove."

Nevin made it 3-0 at 14:42 of the first period with some assistance from another Detroit defenceman, bad boy Howie Young. With Leafs' Tim Horton in the penalty box, Nevin stole the puck from between Young's skates, cut on Sawchuk from the left side and beat him easily in.

CASHES OWN REBOUND

Jeffrey, who scored one goal in Detroit's semi-final against Chicago Black Hawks, got both his goals in the second period. Toronto goaltender Johnny Bower stopped a long shot by Jeffrey with his skate but the puck dropped to the ice between his legs. Before he could spot it, Jeffrey poked it into the net.

At 8:05, with Leaf defenceman Bob Baum in the penalty box, Gordie Howe put Jeffrey in the clear with a perfect pass and the winger fired a 15-foot shot into a corner.

Nevin scored his second goal at 5:08 of the third period, steering Bob Pulford's long shot under a falling Sawchuk.

DICK DUFF

Mahovlich Banged Up? 'Too Damn Bad'—Gadsby

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Mahovlich is nursing a damaged knee today—but he won't receive any get-well cards from a tough old guy named Bill Gadsby.

Mahovlich collided with Gadsby in the first period Tuesday night as Toronto Maple Leafs dumped Detroit Red Wings 4-2 in the opening game of the Stanley Cup finals.

Later, in the Detroit dressing room, Gadsby was told that Mahovlich had been lost to the Leafs, perhaps for the rest of the series.

"Too damn bad," said the 17-year veteran defenceman, a smile creasing his battle-scarred face.

"I gave him a good, clean check—with my knee. Our knees met and I gave it a little twist."

Red Ink Is Deeper Than Rugby Budget

The B.C. Rugby Union budgeted for a bottle of red ink when they invited the Japanese national team to play five exhibition games in Canada.

They didn't figure on two bottles, however.

"We used what we considered to be the best combination of these players for this particular game. As it turned out, we were wrong."

"We'll be better against your Victoria team."

Berner Clicks In First Round

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Vickie Berner, Canadian junior champion from Vancouver, Tuesday defeated Pam Stewart of the United States 6-3, 6-1, in the first round of the Monte Carlo tennis tournament.

The BCRCU is "on the hook" for $16,000, including a $6,000 travel expense guarantee. The Japanese Rugby Union provided an additional $13,000 required to bring the 26 players here.

HAD EYES OPEN

"We had our eyes open when we invited the Japanese," said Banks. "We budgeted for a loss, but not this much."

The visiting team defeated UBC Thunderbirds, 23-5, but lost their second game, 39-5, to BC Reps.

Assistant manager Shigeki Konno said Tuesday night that the Japanese team won't be beaten that badly again. "We're a much better team than that."

Konno and other members of the touring side were guests of the city at an Empress Hotel banquet. Pleasantly honest, he discussed reports that the Japanese used "second-stringers" in the second game.

"We have no second-stringers. This is our national team—the best players in the Japanese Rugby Union."

The Cards won 7-0.

Classic Goofs Mark Mets' Inaugural

NEW YORK (AP) — The tip off came early. The British won the battle of Bunker Hill.

Then Casey Stengel held the floral wreath upside down. And the band finished four bars ahead of the singer in the national anthem.

After that, the new Mets took the field, widely advertised as the group that would make the fans forget about 1962 when they were widely considered the worst baseball team of all time.

"We have no second-stringers. This is our national team—the best players in the Japanese Rugby Union."

The Cards won 7-0.

It was good try, but Cleveland outfielder Tito Francona is tagged by Minnesota catcher Earl Battey with score tied 3-3 in sixth inning of American League game Tuesday. Francona bravely

Cleveland Indians, with an assist from the Royal Canadian Air Force and plan 5BX, are away winging, winning their opener with a four-homer salvo as the season began to run full throttle.

Using "ball players nobody ever heard of," the Indians belted 20-game winner Camilo Pascual solidly Tuesday for a 5-4 opening-day victory over Minnesota Twins that had new manager Birdie Tebbetts chirping.

Tebbetts borrowed the 11-minute 5BX calisthenic program from the RCAF and instituted it in spring training to get the Indians prepared for a quick get-away. There is no doubt his "nobodies" got away quick.

They include Jim Grant, who pitched a seven-hitter, and homer-hitters Woodie Held, John Romano, rookie Max Alvis and newly-acquired Fred Whitfield.

Laboring Lungs Tell Shamrocks Season Started

If Victoria Shamrocks don't step to the Inter-City Lacrosse League starting line in top condition it won't be the fault of coach Don Ashbee.

Ashbee, the veteran, hard-rock forward who took over the coaching reins of the Rocks this season after joining the club as a player a year ago, has been cracking the whip in pre-season training sessions.

Running, calisthenics, passing drills and more running have had legs wobbling and lungs laboring at Memorial Arena workouts.

No Shamrock club in recent years has been worked as hard before the serious shooting started, but through it all appears to be a revitalization of the once-noted Irish spirit.

Showin' 'Em How

Among the reasons for the pickup in spirit could be Ashbee's method of making no concessions to established veterans and his training motto—"You run until you drop and I'll keep on running."

He's been doing just that, laboring the longest and the hardest.

"Whatever happens," says veteran Geordie Johnston, back for another bid to nail down a goal-tending job, "this club will be trying all the way. It will be in top condition sooner than any Shamrock team in recent years."

The Rocks will need all the spirit and energy they can muster in order to challenge the league's "big two"—New Westminster and Vancouver—for the top position. They may even have a struggle to finish ahead of the "have-nots"—Nanaimo and Burnaby.

Juniors Stay Down

On paper, the Rocks appear somewhat weaker than their third-place club of last season. They will be adding Don's brother, Barry Ashbee, currently engaged in American Hockey League playoffs, to their roster. But they have also lost some regulars, including hard-shooting defenceman Al Davies and Skip MacKay. Goalie Barry Forbes also appears ready to call it quits.

As yet, an attractive source near-by talent—the Junior Shamrocks—has yielded little. Most of the baby Rocks intend to keep their club intact for a try at keeping the Canadian junior crown they won last year.

One exception may be defenceman Ray Beech. One or two more appear to be wavering. Others, able to play up to seven senior games without losing their junior eligibility, will probably play a few games with the big Shamrocks.

Likes Young Legs

Whoever plays the junior ball bounces. Ashbee is approaching the season with guarded optimism.

"We've lost some of our good players," he said, "but this club is going to be in better shape than last year. And I don't think we played up to our potential last season. We could get away to a good start."

"I would like to sign a few of the good juniors. We could use a couple of smart veterans for the odd-man play, but our future is with young players. You can't beat those young legs in this game."

Conditioning promises to be an important item in opening games for Ashbee's crew. The first one will be an exhibition tussle against the Junior Shamrocks on April 24 and the Minto Cup champions can be expected to go all out in an attempt to run their big brothers into the floor.

And the Irish run into a rugged start in the Inter-City League schedule. They open at Memorial Arena May 1 against

TRIGGER' YOUR GRIP

Once you complete the grip with the left hand and place the right-hand fingers under the shaft, close the right hand over the shaft. The left thumb should fit snugly into the groove of the right palm, and the right thumb goes on the left-top part of the shaft (see illustration).

Again, squeeze the right thumb and forefinger together. With the right forefinger wrapped entirely around the shaft, a sort of "trigger" is formed. Push the hands close together as possible, and you're ready to get into position to swing.

Hot Belisle Paces Seals

PORTLAND (CP)—Danny Belisle is a force to be reckoned with in the Western Hockey League's Southern Division playoffs.

The San Francisco Seal winger has scored three goals and assisted on four others since the playoffs began.

He scored his third goal at Portland Tuesday night as the Seals defeated the Buckaroos 5-2 to even the best-of-seven division finals at one game each.

The next two games will be played at San Francisco Thursday and Saturday.

Meanwhile the Northern Division playoffs start tonight with Seattle Totems against the Canucks at Vancouver.

JUMP INTO LEAD

Seals led 1-0 after the first period and 2-1 after the second.

Ray Cyr, Al Nicholson, Duke Edmundson and defenceman Larry McNabb scored the other Seals goals. Tommy McVie and Gerry Goyer scored for Portland.

SEAL GOALS

Shamrocks, who gave the city its first Canadian Junior boxcar crown last year, tangle with Vancouver Legion, the club they barely beat out for provincial laurels.

The league, which operated with four teams last season, will be bolstered by a fifth entry this year.

Joining the Shamrocks, Vancouver Legion, Vancouver Vindex and New Westminster will be Chilliwack, backed by Burnaby and Northburn.

MEET BIG ROCKS

Each of the junior teams will play 16 games during the regular schedule—two at home and two away—against each of the other four clubs.

First appearance of the Junior Irish will be an April 24 exhibition tussle at Memorial Arena against the Shamrocks of the senior Inter-City League.

It's no secret that the youngsters would love to humiliate the big Rocks and they'll have all but one of the players who played for Victoria in the Minto Cup final last September.

Due to bolster the club will be the five Vancouver players who served as replacements in the Canadian playoff. Missing will be Dave Woodley, currently on a trip to Ontario.

Proceeds from the exhibition will be used to pay medical expenses of Fred Sutton, a Vancouver Legion player who is still being treated for a fractured cheekbone and nerve damage suffered in a game here last season.

Eichmann Aide Ousted

BERN (Reuters) — Erich Rajakovich, alleged former assistant of Nazi Adolf Eichmann, today was escorted to an undisclosed frontier after the justice ministry announced he had been found in Switzerland.

News of his deportation came as Dutch authorities in The Hague requested other countries to take all necessary measures "with a view to the possible trial" of Rajakovich.

Rajakovich, who arrived here secretly last week from Milan, was previously barred from Switzerland.

An Italian interior ministry spokesman said Italian frontier posts had been ordered to refuse Rajakovich entry as "an undesirable element."

Rajakovich spent his time in Bern at a country house in Melide in Tessin Canton (state) which he bought for his family in 1960.

Dutch newspapers have accused Rajakovich, 58, of being an accomplice in the murder of 110,000 Dutch Jews, including Anne Frank, who became world famous for the diary she left describing her years in hiding from the Nazis in an attic.

United Nations (AP) — Premier Cyrille Adoula of The Congo republic has accused the Soviet Union of trying to infringe on The Congo's sovereignty. Adoula made the charge in a letter to UN Secretary-General U Thant March 16. Thant made the letter public Tuesday without comment.

STIFF UPPER LIP PROTECTED

LONDON (AP) — Jerry Duerden, 36-year-old London tavernkeeper, has taken out a policy insuring his nine-inch moustache against theft and fire after he went to sleep with a lighted cigarette in his mouth and woke up with the bush burning. Now he stands to collect £100 ($300) if he loses the moustache through theft or fire.

ACTOR Monty Woolley, 74, remained in critical condition to-day at Albany Medical Centre Hospital. Woolley, probably best known for his starring role in the movie, The Man Who Came to Dinner, was reported suffering from a heart ailment.

Oak Bay Schools Ineffective Fallout Shelters

Oak Bay schools so far have proven of little value as radiation fallout shelters, a function proposed by civil defence in the event of a nuclear disaster.

Civil defence co-ordinator Geoffrey White reported to CD executive committee that three schools had been surveyed for fallout protection value, showing a factor of 30-40 in most cases.

This compares with a value of 1,000 for a below-ground shelter having three feet of earth overhead.

But, Mr. White pointed out, the protection factor could be increased to about 100 by using sandbagging and baffle walls in the buildings.

This could be expensive, and to some extent would require the use of space that most schools can ill afford to spare.

GERMAN TROOP BASE PROTESTED BY DUTCH

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — Cries of "shame" and "Auschwitz" rose from the public galleries Tuesday when the Lower House of the Dutch parliament approved 102 to 8 a treaty providing for about 3,000 German troops to be stationed in The Netherlands. The demonstrators, recalling that more than 100,000 Dutch Jews died in Nazi camps, were removed from the galleries.

HAIGH'S JUNK YARD

'It's Not Neat Yet' Magistrate Finds

Veteran junk dealer Harry Haigh was given another chance in city police court Tuesday to clean up what he claimed were "neat piles" of junk at his Rockland Avenue residence.

His case was remanded from April 1, when he was charged with operating a junkyard without a licence at 1586 Rockland.

Magistrate William Ostler then allowed him a week to clean up the premises.

Today, city building in-

"Your Honor, may I make a statement?" Mr. Haigh asked. "But all you do is make statements," the magistrate replied. "If you would take some physical action and stop making so many statements we might get somewhere."

"But I can't do much in this wet weather, Your Honor. I'm half paralyzed."

"It's not wet now, Mr. Haigh," said the magistrate dryly.

The case was adjourned to April 17 for sentence.

TALK-HOUSES AID SEAMEN

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's maritime safety agency said Tuesday it is building talk-houses to replace light-houses to aid men at sea.

Recorded feminine voices will be used to give locations and other navigational information by means of microwave transmission. A spokesman said a test was conducted successfully in February at the port of Kobe and now two talk-houses are under construction.

However, a fresh load of lumber had been dumped in the backyard.

The accused told the magistrate that he had piled the lumber in preparation for its being moved.

"You know the premises is no longer a junk pile just because you remove piles from the front and then dump them in the back," Mr. Ostler explained.

"But they're very neat piles," Mr. Haigh offered.

"Unfortunately your idea of neat piles does not conform to that of the rest of the community," the magistrate said.

Acting prosecutor T. P. O'Grady read out a record of convictions under the same city bylaw against the accused dating back to 1953.

RCAF 'Haylift' to North Saves Qualicum Man's Starving Horses

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A mercy flight, in which seven tons of hay was dropped to a herd of starving pack-horses last Sunday, was kept secret by the RCAF until after Monday's general election.

The horses, running loose in the Dease Lake area, 440 miles northwest of here, belong to T. E. Watson, Qualicum Beach, V.I.

The starving condition of the horses was reported to Mr. Watson by charter pilots who spotted the herd from the air. Unusually heavy snow had kept them from foraging for themselves.

Mr. Watson appealed to the defence department and the RCAF at Baldy Hughes radar base southwest of here.

Sunday morning, an RCAF C-130 Hercules cargo plane landed at Prince George Airport, took on the hay and took off. The crew located the herd and dropped the fodder from 150 feet up.

RCAF asked that the mercy flight, which went off without a hitch, be kept secret until after the election to head off possible charges that it might have been a pre-election stunt.

De Gaulle Showing Signs Of Easing Lone Wolf Stand

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—French President de Gaulle is reported holding the door open for eventual strategic co-operation between France's projected nuclear striking force and the forces of the other NATO allies.

Qualified sources in Paris report French atomic bombs and supersonic atomic bombers will begin rolling along production lines this fall and be ready to take to the air by the end of the year.

De Gaulle's attitude now is interpreted here as reflecting a desire on his part to avoid unnecessary irritations, despite basic policy differences in French-U.S. relationships.

The French leader is reported to stand by a statement he made at a press conference in mid-January that France would not refuse technological or strategic co-operation with its allies when it has constructed its own atomic force. But that force is not yet in being and de Gaulle considers the present time too soon to undertake any specific commitments.

State Secretary Rusk conferred for 20 minutes Monday with de Gaulle. It was the first such high level U.S.-French conference since de Gaulle blocked Britain's entry into the

NO RAISE FOR MPs IN BRITAIN

LONDON (AP)—Britain's members of Parliament, who claim they are among the lowest paid in the world, groaned and cheered ironically Tuesday as Prime Minister Macmillan told them they couldn't expect a raise.

Macmillan said he realized there were cases of individual difficulty but he did not think it right that the government should propose any increase at this time.

Members of the Commons are paid £1,750 ($3,250) a year.

INTERNATIONAL DECISIONS URGENT

Dollar Sign Shadows Winner

OTTAWA (CP)—A huge dollar sign hangs ominously over the heads of whatever political party governs Canada as a result of Monday's federal election — whether the Conservatives remain in office or give way to the Liberals.

Problems of both national and international finance are coming to a point where decisions appear urgent. They range through such matters as determining the pay of post office workers; drafting a new national budget; charting a course for Canada in international trade and bolstering the treasury of the United Nations.

A series of international meetings starting in mid-May already sets the deadlines for some major decisions.

On May 13, Commonwealth trade and finance ministers meet in London in preparation for a May 16 meeting in Geneva of the members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. On May 14 a special United Nations meeting opens in New York to save the world organization from bankruptcy, and on May 22 the North Atlantic countries meet here to study NATO defences.

In addition to these commitments, both Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal Leader

Pearson promised in the campaign for Monday's election that Parliament would be called in May.

It will be confronted with the massive problem of approving a new budget, authorizing a spending program, and passing legislation to meet situations needing Parliamentary action soon.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the campaign that the government had its budget for 1963-64 ready to be presented to the Commons by the end of February. If he retains office, he may want to make some amendments to the budget before it is presented. If Mr. Pearson takes over, it is likely the Liberals will want to make some more basic revisions.

Mr. Diefenbaker promised to make pay increases for the armed forces, postal workers, customs officers and similar civil servants retroactive to last Oct. 1. Mr. Pearson is likely to do the same.

Rebel Leader Caught

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Rear Admiral Arturo Rial, one of the leaders of last week's unsuccessful military revolt in Argentina, has surrendered to police, it was announced Tuesday night.

RCAF 'Haylift' to North Saves Qualicum Man's Starving Horses

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A mercy flight, in which seven tons of hay was dropped to a herd of starving pack-horses last Sunday, was kept secret by the RCAF until after Monday's general election.

The horses, running loose in the Dease Lake area, 440 miles northwest of here, belong to T. E. Watson, Qualicum Beach, V.I.

The starving condition of the horses was reported to Mr. Watson by charter pilots who spotted the herd from the air. Unusually heavy snow had kept them from foraging for themselves.

Wow! What An Experience!

Forlorn figure of five-year-old Robert Shields in glass-smashed car made quite a picture at corner of Douglas and Pandora Tuesday afternoon. Robert was riding with family friend, John Carter, when his car was in collision with a truck driven by Geoffrey D'Arcy, 5681 Wellsview. Tailgate of truck ripped windshield post, and glass of the windshield and front passenger door shattered. Neither Robert, son of Lieut.-Cmdr. and Mrs. Amory Shields, 637 Beach Drive, nor Mr. Carter, who lives at same address, was injured. Pet poodle, seen beside Robert in front seat, ducked flying glass too.

Well, now that it is all over but the shooting, as the cowboys said to the Indians, I think it is safe to forecast a return to the two-party system.

This will come as a great relief to me, because two parties are about all I can stand, and then only if they are 30 days apart.

You may be interested to learn the real reason why the Tories failed to improve their position during Monday's voting.

It was the fault of their slogan, "Think Canadian."

Had they had the foresight to change it to "Think Canadian" they would have won the solid adverb vote.

With the final admonition to, next time, vote as you please but vote no, leave us depart from the field of politics and discuss a certain young lady of my acquaintance and the Easter bunny.

This young lady, who is about half past four, was the focal point of a conversation Sunday which has left me worried about its possible effects on her young, impressionable mind.

It started when we were visiting that "farm" out of Cova Bay way, and the young lady was much intrigued by the assortment of bunny rabbits.

Said the young lady's mother: "Tell the Easter bunny to be sure to bring you some eggs on Sunday."

Said the young lady: "Which one is the Easter bunny?"

Said her mother: "Just tell any one of them, he'll pass the word."

So the young lady dutifully told the nearest bunny her name and address, and said she would like some chocolate eggs, please.

So far, a perfect example of the child's world of fantasy and its encouragement by adults.

But, nearly an hour later, after we had returned to town, the young lady turned to me and asked: "How will the Easter bunny get out of that pen over the big fence next Sunday?"

"You know about parachutes?" I asked.

"Parachutes are for jumping from the sky," she said.

"Well," I explained, "the Easter bunny has a parachute which operates in reverse—it goes up instead of down."

"Oh," said the young lady.

Family Court Plan Called Forward Step

Mayor R. B. Wilson today said new provincial legislation controlling Family and Juvenile Courts appear "a step forward" toward settling problems before they reach court.

He was commenting on a meeting with deputy attorney-general Dr. Gilbert Kennedy attended by representatives of all four Greater Victoria municipalities on Tuesday.

The mayor said several phases of the new legislation giving the provincial government control of the Family Court and probation services in each B.C. municipality were clarified.

However, some aspects, particularly costs, were left for further clarification.

CENTRAL OFFICE

The mayor indicated that one of the situations the Greater Victoria area will have to meet sounds provision of a central office and registry for the Family Court and probation services here.

He said it might be possible to enlarge the present court's quarters in the civic health and welfare centre on Cook Street instead of constructing a new building.

MEN SHY AWAY FROM 'BEAUTY STYLING'

TORONTO (CP) — In the beauty business, dealing with men requires more psychology than dealing with women.

Ivan Anderson discovered this after he opened a salon in Toronto offering "exclusive hair-styling for men".

When you say hair-styling, the picture of a women's beauty salon—rollers, hair clips, wave sets, big driers, hair nets and the whole woman's bit—springs into a man's mind.

The words "hair grooming" might have been wiser—they wouldn't sound so frightening to men, says Ivan.

A desk pen set was presented to Mr. Heineky and critics thanked by Hilda Dewar.

Velma Merriman gave the blessing and toast to the Queen. In charge of banquet arrangements were Miss Marinker, A. Birch and C. R. Stephens.

WITH A LITTLE CARE

Easter Plants Future Garden Flowers

"It doesn't take much of a green thumb to persuade Easter flowers to bloom a second or even several times," said the head of well-known Ontario greenhouses. There are some basic rules to follow for root or bulb plants and a little care is needed from the time the plant arrives from the florist.

That "little care" especially involves proper watering. Most plants call for thorough soaking when soil on the top of the pot appears dry, but not parched. "And I mean soaked," this man emphasized. "Not pot—but not the foliage—and just a cup of water a day. Let it soak up moisture. But the plant should be wet to the roots. Then the excess water should be drained off from the bottom. A plant is like a person—it can't tolerate wet feet."

Two exceptions to this rule are polyantha roses and hybrid orangeas. They should be soaked daily because they are pot-bound and they have little soil to hold water.

"If any plant is wilting on arrival from the florist, dunk it in a bucket or sinkful of water right to the neck of the potted spirea makes an excellent border plant and can be placed in the garden when it stops blooming. It will bloom again next year. Polyantha roses will bloom again this summer if flowers are nipped off as they wilt and the bush planted in the garden. Next spring, prune it back slightly and it will set off on another round of blooms.

Mums should be cut back when they stop blooming. Since pot mums contain three to five plants, they should be separated and planted individually in the garden. They will produce buds in late fall and, if the frost arrives first, cover the plants with plastic and they will bloom after the frost arrives.

Bulb plants like hyacinths, calla lilies, narcissus and gladioli are treated differently. After blooms fade, the stem should be left until it yellows because the bulb reabsorbs all the goodness in the stem. The plant should not be watered during this time. Then the bulb should be dusted with dry sulphur, inexpensively available from any drug store, and repotted.

Pots of calla lilies should be placed on their sides in a dry place—basement or under a tree—and repotted in the fall. This magnificent plant will continue to bloom for years.

Hyacinths, tulips, daffodils and narcissus can winter outdoors. The latter two especially will improve year after year.

Gloxinia should be allowed to dry out for six to eight weeks while the bulb "ripens," then repotted in the fall for blooming next year.

Many of this year's plants will produce only one more crop of blooms.

But others make magnificent shows of blooms year after year in the garden.

KIWANIANS TOLD:

'Most Teen-Agers Laugh About God'

Most of today's teen-agers laugh about God and turn their back on the church, Dr. Archie Gray and Doug Kirk told members of Victoria Kiwanis Club at their Tuesday luncheon.

The two speakers were telling the club about Canada Young Life, a group of young men and women experimenting in communicating the gospel to teens of high school age.

Young Life was founded 20 years ago in Texas by a man named Jim Reyburn, an assistant minister in a Presbyterian parish who was assigned the task of going to the local high school to tell the students the gospel of Jesus Christ.

"He developed a novel approach to these high school kids," Dr. Gray said.

"He would go to their hangouts like the local beauty or drug stores and get to know them and talk to them on their level."

"A teen-ager is an individual who is very unsure of himself. Everyone complains about high school kids. Now, Jim Reyburn has given us a chance to do something about this situation."

"A parent can't say to a teen-ager, 'I know a good club you can join.' As soon as the teen-ager gets outside, he says, 'Hah... the old square.'

Instead of encouraging today's teen-ager to go to their meetings, Young Life goes to the teen-ager, Dr. Gray explained.

IWA Member Has Right To Sue Union

VANCOUVER (CP) — William Exner, a member of the IWA, has been given permission to prosecute his union local for indirectly contributing money to the New Democratic Party.

The provincial Labor Relations Board Tuesday gave him permission to prosecute the union under the terms of Bill 42, a 1961 amendment to the Labor Relations Act which prohibits the use of union dues to support any political party or candidate.

Mr. Exner told a board hearing IWA Local Q-217 made indirect contributions of union funds to the NDP and one of its candidates by publishing two advertisements in the November, 1962, issue of the local's newspaper.

One charge involves an advertisement for Antony Holland, NDP candidate in a provincial byelection in Vancouver-Point Grey riding last December.

The second charge concerns an advertisement for the sale of Christmas trees to support the NDP.

Crew Members Saved

LUNENBURG, N.S. (UPI) — Seven crew members of the longliner Jannine T were safe here today after their vessel foundered off the coast.

As the new disturbance moved up the eastern seaboard with 50-mile-an-hour winds and mixed rain and snow, a storm that hit the area Monday blew itself out over the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Three deaths were attributed to the blizzard, which swooped in from the Atlantic, scrambling communications and blocking highways.

WINTER WON'T DIE IN MARITIMES

HALIFAX (CP) — More winter-like weather is expected to sweep the Maritime provinces on the heels of a blizzard that left wide regions staggering under 17 inches of snow.

As the new disturbance moved up the eastern seaboard with 50-mile-an-hour winds and mixed rain and snow, a storm that hit the area Monday blew itself out over the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Three deaths were attributed to the blizzard, which swooped in from the Atlantic, scrambling communications and blocking highways.

Young Life eaters mainly to the crowd in high schools who do not belong to the YMCA, church groups or other youth organizations.

Locally, there is a club at Oak Bay High School with about 50 members and another at Mount Douglas High School with a membership near 40.

"I expect to get started or Victoria High School next September," Mr. Kirk said.

CHILDREN SAVE MONGREL

MALLORY TOWN, Ont. (CP) — A dozen children formed a human wall around a stray mongrel Tuesday to stall police efforts to shoot the dog.

Provincial police arrived in this St. Lawrence River village, 12 miles west of Brockville, under orders to kill the animal as a dangerous stray. They had been trying to capture Spike, a part-German shepherd, for 10 days.

The children refused to let the police near Spike. Their parents have been feeding the animal.

"Spike is not a bad dog," said Roderick Kelly, one of the children, after the police had retired. "He likes us kids."

Another boy, Bruce MacPherson, used his allowance to buy a licence for Spike and remove him from the stray category, and storekeeper Mrs. William Bell has offered the dog a home.

SOLUTION MONDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "The Little King," Hassan II of Morocco, travelling with 361 pieces of luggage and never sparing the caviar, will put New York night life back on its feet if we can just get His Highness to hang around long enough.

Forty strong, his entourage caught Ford & Hines at the Plaza Persian Room . . . holding up the show about an hour due to arriving late.

Something like 29 portions of caviar were opened and not entirely devoured. "Wrap it up and we'll take it with us," somebody directed, much the same as saying, "I'll take that home to my dog."

Who picks up the tab? Mayor Wagner? The state department? Morocco? We doubt its Morocco . . . because later we saw Hassan II brunching on his own at the Voisin . . . and he had only four people!

At brunch, I noticed he was far from the outstanding-looking individual at the Voisin. He was, of course, short, and behind dark glasses, and, as somebody said, "He's the one in the sports jacket." You wonder, maybe—is he really contented?

When somebody remarked, "His tab at the Plaza the other night was $4,000," well, naturally, respect for His Highness immediately increased. "Instant Homage," I suppose you could call it.

Kim Novak did it—she quarreled with Henry Hathaway in Dublin, until he walked off as director of "Of Human Bondage." The new director: Kent Hughes. Kim didn't like the way Hathaway was directing her as the Cockney waitress Mildred. Seven Arts assigned Hathaway to direct another film, "The Careful Man."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "He's such a bad writer . . . people wouldn't finish a ransom note if he wrote it." — Len Maxwell, at the Bitter End.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Hardly a man is now alive who thought that he could drink and drive." — Jack Herbert.

EARL'S PEARLS: "There are many things more important than money—but it takes money to buy them." — Francois Amerique.

REMEMBERED QUOTES: "Burke said there were Three Estates in Parliament; but, in the Reporters' gallery yonder, there sat a Fourth Estate more important far than they all." — Carlyle, "Heroes and Hero-Worship."

Most of the ring system, it is thought, is made of small specks of dust and other debris. In one area, however, the particles seem to appear larger. This is the rougher-looking crepe ring where the orbiting particles may be as large as small boulders.

Down at our friendly neighborhood tavern, they remembered Arnold Glasow's line, "Umpires are like wives, who not only have the last word, but never think you're safe when you're out." . . . That's Earl, brother.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by club readers and those who submit the most interesting questions will receive a copy of the 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Michael Gerrard, age 11, of Charleston, W.Va., for his question:

What happens when iron rusts?

Iron and steel are sturdy metals, well able to perform heavy duties in the world of industry. But outside in the weathered air, these heavy-duty metals are always open to attack from their secret, and silent enemy—rust. Ships and bridges need constant rust-proofing, and sensible owners protect skates and spades and other small items from rust.

Rust attacks iron and steel outdoors where there is rain and dewy moisture in the air. A crumbly coat of reddish brown flakes forms on the surface, and, if the metal is not rescued, it soon rusts to dust. The flaky rust is actually ashes—and ashes suggest burning. We see no fire as iron and steel rust away, but rusting is actually a burning process.

CHINA LEADER GIVES INTERVIEW

'U.S. Will Be Forced Out'

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai predicts the United States will be forced out of Asia, and Indian influence in the continent will vanish.

His forecast was reported today by Saifur Ali Querishi, chief reporter of The Associated Press of Pakistan and first foreign correspondent to be given an interview by Chou in nearly two years.

Querishi said he had a three-hour interview with Chou March 31.

He quoted Chou as saying China would fight back if India sent its troops into the border areas which China vacated after her unilateral cease-fire decision last November.

"United States imperialism, which occupies our Taiwan, is hostile to China, excludes China from the United Nations and other international organizations, and helps the Chiang Kai-shek clique to maintain a 'Republic of China,'" Chou said.

He said India is playing up to the Sino-Indian dispute to gain economic and military American aid to help it satisfy its own "expansionist ambitions."

1,000 Due To March Victoria Day

Military bands and marching units will number about 1,000 men in this year's Victoria Day parade downtown. Greater Victoria Celebrations' Association was told Tuesday night.

Thunderbird and Tracker aircraft also will perform a flypast.

The meeting, one of the planning sessions for the holiday weekend celebrations, also was informed that:

Victoria branch of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire plans its annual parade to the legislature May 24;

An RCAF band will perform concerts here Aug. 16 and 18;

Cadet Week will be held May 12 to 18 by the tri-service college at Royal Roads and will include a parade.

600 Homes Levelled

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Fire swept several acres of slums in Saigon Tuesday and in less than an hour destroyed 600 flimsy homes, leaving more than 3,000 Vietnamese homeless. One old woman, unable to find an escape route, perished. Two weeks ago a kitchen fire spread and destroyed the homes of about 28,000 slum dwellers in the same district.

PWA Pickets Make Way For Loggers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pickets will disappear this weekend from the Pacific Western Airlines centre at Vancouver Airport.

But that won't mean their strike has been settled.

In an unexpected action, the striking flight attendants and stewardesses have offered to remove their lines to allow lumbermen to travel PWA between the mainland and Vancouver Island.

Members of the International Woodworkers of America have refused to cross the picket lines. An IWA spokesman said today that the lines will be removed from noon Thursday to noon Friday, and all day Monday to allow IWA members to go home for the Easter weekend without breaking their commitment.

MEETING ENDS

SEATO Supports Laos Neutrality

PARIS (Reuters)—The eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization today ended its three-day ministerial meeting here with a communiqué reaffirming its support of a neutral and independent Laos.

The communiqué said the council hopes those in power in Laos and those nations signing last year's Geneva agreement on Laos "will succeed in ensuring the maintenance of peace, neutrality and national unity which the people of Laos so earnestly desire."

Noting that considerable progress has been achieved in the fight against Communist subversion in South Viet Nam, the council said: "One may expect a new improvement in the situation thanks to the efforts made by the government" in stopping rebellion.

The council hopes that Viet Nam, with the support given to it, would be in a position to maintain its advance toward internal stability and international security."

The council emphasized that a "major task" facing member countries is development of effective measures to prevent and counteract subversion.

SEATO members are the United States, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, Thailand, The Philippines and Thailand.

U.S. State Secretary Rusk told the final session the Communists drive on South Viet Nam has been blunted.

He said the South Vietnamese government seems to have found the right strategy in its fight against pro-Communist guerrillas and that ultimate victory is certain.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home said there is evidence the Communist Chinese and North Vietnamese have stepped up subversive activity throughout Southeast Asia.

Home told reporters the conference was "very satisfactory" and the alliance is in good shape.

The next meeting will be held in Manila next year, and will mark SEATO's 10th anniversary.

Conference sources said the SEATO ministers foresaw an easing of tension in Laos following a New China news agency announcement of a cease-fire agreement. Fighting has been reported in Laos between neutral and pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces.

The ministers re-elected Pote Sarasin of Thailand as secretary-general for the next two years. He has held the office since 1957.

Epic Voyage Planned By Adventurer, 70

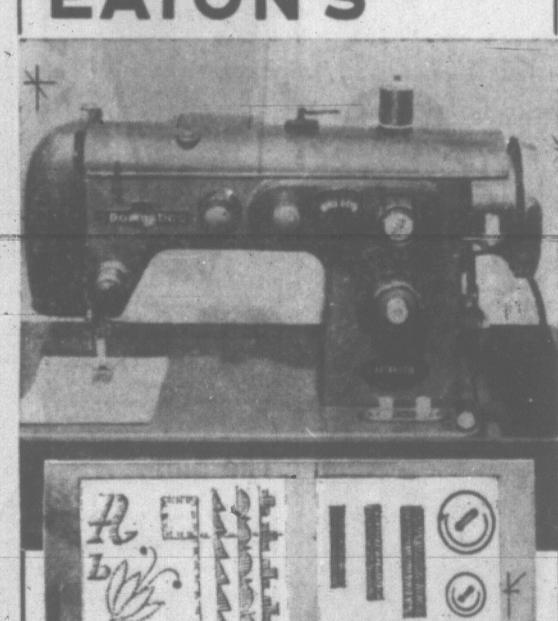

NEW YORK (AP) — William Willis, still an adventurer at 70 years, proposes to sail some 10,000 to 12,000 miles across the Pacific Ocean from Callao, Peru, to Australia, with only a dog and a cat for company.

Willis, who has sailed the seas as man and boy for 53 years, won fame in 1954 by guiding a raft 6,700 miles in 115 days from Callao to Samoa.

His mileage was 1,500 greater than that recorded by six Scandinavians on the raft Kon-Tiki in 1947. He detailed his exploit in a book, The Gods Were Kind, which has been printed in 35 languages.

U.S. OFFICER SENT BOMB TO WIFE

SAIGON (AP) — A bomb that exploded in a San Francisco, Calif., post office March 18 injuring a clerk has been traced to a U.S. Army captain in South Viet Nam. The captain, stationed in Saigon, had packaged an explosive device and sent it to his wife through the army post office system. The officer is scheduled to be taken back to the United States to be placed in a mental institution.

FOUR-PARTY 'SUMMIT' TO DECIDE FUTURE?

VANCOUVER (UPI)—A spokesman for New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas said today an inter-party summit meeting has been called to decide who will form the government.

Douglas' campaign manager George Kowbel said, "I understand there has been a suggestion all the national leaders get together to issue a statement or statements on what they plan to do."

WORST FIRE SEASON WASHINGTON THREAT

OLYMPIA (AP)—Washington is bracing itself for what could be its worst summer fire season since the early 1950s, state land commissioner Bert Cole said today.

Billions of board feet of timber blown down during the Oct. 12 windstorm has littered forests with tons of debris that could burn "with savage and virtually uncontrollable intensity," he said.

GAGLARDI CALL UNDECIDED

Road Probe 'Wasteful, Witch Hunt'

By FRANK RUTTER

The highway graft inquiry is a Roman holiday and a waste of money, Victoria Socred Waldo Skillings charged today.

He threw the inquiry into an uproar when he called it a witch hunt and said it had found out absolutely nothing.

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi also made a statement at today's hearing: a plea for a speedy conclusion because millions of dollars could be wasted if his department officials can't get back to work.

It's still undecided whether or not Mr. Gaglardi will appear as a witness. His lawyer says no; inquiry chairman Irvine Corbett (SC-Yale) says yes, if he's called, and if he refuses he could face a contempt charge.

SIXTH WEEK

What triggered this morning's outbursts was the prospect of the inquiry going into next week—it's sixth.

It had been hoped it would end before Easter, but discovery of a potential new witness could prolong it.

With frayed nerves bare, the 13 MLAs on the inquiry called it off until 9:30 a.m. Thursday giving time to contact Glen Geery in Seattle, the one-time construction manager of Project 819, around which the allegations of graft revolve.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker returns to Ottawa by air today to face a second-best parliamentary position bestowed by Monday's general election.

A cabinet meeting—assembled a ministry that suffered six defeats—has been called for Thursday morning.

Tuesday he spent a "cooling off" period in his special railway car, aides said.

He took and placed calls, received visitors and drove for an hour with his brother Elmer amid continuing snowflurries.

Stops included the federal penitentiary and the home of the returning officer in Monday's election.

While he and his wife read personal telegrams, he also studied the election results,

Crucial Cabinet Talks Thursday

(Special to the Times)

OTTAWA—The national capital today is marking time until the service vote from Monday's election is counted, but all indications are that John Diefenbaker will resign as prime minister this weekend and turn the reins of government over to Liberal chieftain Lester Pearson.

These were today's significant developments:

1. Mr. Pearson said he will line up his prospective cabinet over the weekend.

2. Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson flew into Ottawa today and said that while Mr. Diefenbaker has the constitutional right to remain as prime minister, he has neither the "technical nor moral right" following his defeat at the polls. This seemed to indicate to observers that Social Credit would not give him the support he would need to stay.

3. Mr. Diefenbaker was flying back to Ottawa for a cabinet meeting Thursday when it is expected the crucial decision-to-surrender power will be discussed.

4. The NDP plans a caucus meeting in Vancouver to consider their strategy.

Pearson Looks To Service Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson, obviously confident he will be asked to form a government, said today he expects to make up his cabinet during the Easter weekend.

However, he told reporters he has not heard directly from Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mr. Pearson was spending today in his office in the Centre Block of the Parliament Buildings, where his aides said he was answering a flood of letters and telegrams "with his usual attendance to correspondence."

'No Moral Right To Hold Office'

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson flew into Ottawa early today and told reporters he feels Prime Minister Diefenbaker may have the constitutional authority to remain in power but does not have the moral or technical right to do so.

Mr. Thompson flew to the capital from Calgary, with a brief stop-over in Toronto. He was expected to meet his deputy leader, Real Caouette, later today.

The Social Credit leader, who saw his party's strength drop to 24 MPs from 30 in the last Parliament, said he interprets Robert Thompson.

KANSAS CITY — Already exuberant Joe Pepitone, who is installed at first base for the Yankees, has become a legend among his own kind. The books don't commemorate such feats but Pepitone belonged to history the first day he appeared for spring practice with the Binghamton team in '60, which was his second full season in baseball. He became the first minor league ball player ever to bring his own boat to a training camp.

Although Pepitone only worked briefly in the American League last season, his name is in the guides. Against Kansas City, Pepitone struck two home runs in one inning which is a record shared by others. Originally an outfielder, Pepitone gives the impression he is a natural first baseman who will eventually dominate the uncomplicated position.

The sport is populated by hicks who generally learn their trade on the grass of small towns. But Pepitone came to it on the asphalt of traffic-congested St. Mark's Avenue in Brooklyn. It was a metropolitan parody of the game that dictated to him and he played it with a rubber ball and used a sawed-off broomhandle as a bat.

Sewers Were Just Right for Bases

"I played stick ball all the time when I was a kid," explained Pepitone. "They threw the ball up on one bounce and one strike was out. It was six men to a side. The sewers were just right for bases. They made like a real diamond and the manhole covers were the bases and home plate."

Drinking a cup of soup in the clubhouse Tuesday after striking two home runs to help the Yankees open their campaign with an 8-2 victory over the Athletics, Pepitone reflected on the advantages of boyhood in the city streets.

"It did me good," said Pepitone. "You know how small the ball is in stick ball. It helped my timing ... it gave me the quick bat and helped my eye. I didn't play with a baseball until I was 14. The name of the team was the Hillmarks. We had real uniforms and all. We sold a lot of chances on things we raffled off and bought our own uniforms. I sold most of my chances to my family."

At high school, Pepitone was captain of the baseball team.

"Then I got shot," he said. "It was the last class of the day. I jumped up fast to get my jacket in the back of the class. This kid I only knew from around the class. We never had an argument. I didn't even know him good. He stuck a gun in my stomach and said 'stick them up.'

I thought he was kidding around. The gun must have had a hair trigger. Bang, it went off. I was shot, but I didn't know it.

"I thought he fired a blank. I felt nothing. Then I saw a hole in my stomach, right under the heart. I ran out. The kid said he had nothing against me. He found the gun and didn't know it was loaded."

In the hospital, Pepitone's weight dwindled from 160 pounds to 116.

"But I had my best year when I got out of the hospital," Pepitone said. "I hit 10 home runs in 14 games. I was playing with the Nathan's Hot Dog team. That's named after a frankfurter stand in Coney Island. All the while I was being watched by Frank Novosel, the Yankee scout. He was hip to me since I was 14."

The Yankees gave him $25,000 as a bonus.

"I bought the boat," he said. "I always wanted one. But you should have heard the guff I got from the manager (Damon de Phillips) when I brought it to training camp. You learn a lot growing up."

Joe Takes Kidding About Vanity

He is a chatty fellow who often allows his interest to wander as he talks with coaches and base runners.

"I like to kid around," Pepitone explained. "You know, talk to the other guys. I want them to like me up here. What fun baseball is, swinging that bat. I love to clear those bases off with a base hit. I think it's easier to hit in the big leagues than in the minors."

It didn't depress him last season when the Yankees dropped him back to Richmond.

"I told I should be down there," he said. "I wanted to be playing. That's all I wanted to do. Play. It didn't shake me up. I left the same day in a hurry so I could play with Richmond that night. I told the manager (Ralph Houk) he was right in sending me down."

The other players rib Pepitone about his vanity which he also ridicules.

"They say I fuss too much with my hair," he said.

"Always fixing it. Once they put a full-length mirror in my locker. When I came back from Richmond last year, where do you think they put my locker? In the gents' room."

He laughed.

"Do you think they were trying to tell me something?" he asked.

Saliva Tests Favored For Two Other Steeds

WINNIPEG (CP) — Thirty-one horsemen Tuesday attended the first Canadian conference on racing. They represented racing interests from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Discussions were broken into four categories covering pari-mutuel regulations, saliva and urine service, security and investigation and uniformity of rules.

Both harness and jockey racing interests attended the one-day session.

Delegates agreed there should be a limit to the number of particular types of special features to be provided in a single racing day. For example: limiting daily doubles to two a program.

Dealing with saliva and urine tests provided by the federal government, delegates suggested that at least two horses besides the winner of an event be subjected to a saliva test.

There was discussion on whether it would be advisable to create a Canadian security and investigation body.

Laver, Rosewall Lose Doubles, But Win Singles

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Rod Laver and Ken Rosewall, the Australian tennis stars, each won singles matches Tuesday night on their professional tour but dropped a doubles match to an American pair.

Laver defeated Earl Buchholz of St. Louis 8-6 and Rosewall beat Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, 8-6.

Buchholz and MacKay teamed to defeat the Australians 8-6.

Andres Gimeno, the Spanish star, defeated Louis Ayala, champion of Chile, 8-6.

Rosewall now has won 26 matches and lost seven on the tour. Buchholz is 20-13. Laver 19-14. Gimeno 16-17. MacKay 10-23 and Ayala 8-25.

Lean Winger Shares Glory With Duff In 4-2 Triumph

TORONTO (CP) — Some extra homework apparently taught Bob Nevin a good habit, one that helped shoot Toronto Maple Leafs into a one-game lead in their Stanley Cup final against Detroit Red Wings Tuesday night.

Leafs manager-coach Punch Imlach kept Nevin after class at a practice session Monday, ordering the lean right winger to shoot pucks at the net for 15 minutes straight. Imlach was unhappy over Nevin's lack of goal production in recent games.

Tuesday night Nevin won at least an interim diploma, firing Toronto's third and fourth goals as they dumped the Red Wings 4-2 in the opener of the best-of-seven series.

Dick Duff also scored twice for Leafs.

BIG M HURT

All was not sunshine for the Leafs. Detroit defenceman Bill Gadsby, checked left-winger Frank Mahovlich in the first period and the Leafs' big gun went to hospital with a knee injury. The extent of his injury or how long he might be out was not to be known until later today.

Talking of Nevin's extra shooting drill, Imlach said he was glad to see Nevin get the goals, "because I had been giving him the blazes."

"I made him shoot for 15 minutes until he got tired of shooting. It may have helped tonight, but I don't think so. He was just due."

Nevin, quietly accepting congratulations after the game, showed no visible excitement although he didn't get a point in the Leafs' five-game semi-final series against Montreal Canadiens.

"I've been getting lots of chances, but they just haven't been going in," he said. "Tonight they just went in."

Duff, who scored his goals 19 seconds apart, the first when the game was only 49 seconds old, had similar remarks.

"Heck, if a few goals had gone in for me like that earlier, I would have had 25 or 35 over the season," he said. He had 16.

Duff credited defensive mistakes by Detroit for his goals. "On the first one Doug Barkley left the puck along the boards and Davey Keon fed it ahead to me," said Duff, who beat Detroit goaltender Terry Sawchuk with a 30-foot shot on the play.

Barkley also got Duff's thanks for the second goal at 1:08. "He just handed it to me at their blue line and I flipped it beneath Sawchuk's glove."

Nevin made it 3-0 at 14:42 of the first period with some assistance from another Detroit defenceman, bad boy Howie Young. With Leafs' Tim Horton in the penalty box, Nevin stole the puck from between Young's skates, cut in on Sawchuk from the left side and beat him from close in.

CASHES OWN REBOUND

Jeffrey, who scored one goal in Detroit's semi-final against Chicago Black Hawks, got both his goals in the second period.

Toronto goaltender Johnny Bower stopped a long shot by Jeffrey with his skate but the puck dropped to the ice between his legs. Before he could spot it, Jeffrey poked it into the net.

At 8:05, with Leaf defenceman Bob Baum in the penalty box, Gordie Howe put Jeffrey in the clear with a perfect pass and the winger fired a 15-foot shot into a corner.

Nevin scored his second goal at 5:08 of the third period, steering Bob Pulford's long shot under a falling Sawchuk.

Mahovlich Banged Up?
'Too Damn Bad' — Gadsby

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Mahovlich is nursing a damaged knee today—but he won't receive any get-well cards from a tough old guy named Bill Gadsby.

Mahovlich collided with Gadsby in the first period Tuesday night as Toronto Maple Leafs dumped Detroit Red Wings 4-2 in the opening game of the Stanley Cup finals.

Later, in the Detroit dressing room, Gadsby was told that Mahovlich has been lost to the Leafs, perhaps for the rest of the series.

"Too damn bad," said the 17-year veteran defenceman, a smile creasing his battle-scarred face.

"I gave him a good, clean check—with my knee. Our knees met and I gave it a little twist."

The Wings, who are used to making comebacks, didn't sound like losers.

"They didn't show me nothing," said Gadsby.

The man attracting most attention in the Leaf room was little Dick Duff who scored two goals within 19 seconds, the second at 1:08 of the first period.

Looking at the circle of reporters gathered around him, Duff said, "You fellows must be looking for someone else."

Duff grinned. "If they had started coming my way that earlier in the year I would have had 30 goals."

Toronto coach Punch Imlach, worried when Detroit fought back in the second period, liked the work of Eddie Shack, the rambunctious winger who was assigned to check Detroit's great Gordie Howe.

In other AL openers, Chicago White Sox edged Detroit Tigers 7-5 behind Montreal pitcher Pete Ward and Hoyt Wilhelm and Los Angeles Angels defeated Boston Red Sox 4-1 behind Ken McBride.

The Indians first three runs came on solo homers by Romano, Whitfield and Alvis. Then, in the seventh with the score tied 3-3, Alvis led off with a double and Held crashed a

Wow! What An Experience!

Forlorn figure of five-year-old Robert Shields in glass-smashed car made quite a picture at corner of Douglas and Pandora Tuesday afternoon. Robert was riding with family friend, John Carter, when his car was in collision with a truck driven by Geoffrey D'Arcy, 5681 Wellsview. Tailgate of truck ripped windshield post, and glass of the windshield and front passenger door shattered. Neither Robert, son of Lieut.-Cmdr. and Mrs. Amory Shields, 637 Beach Drive, nor Mr. Carter, who lives at same address, was injured. Pet poodle, seen beside Robert in front seat, ducked flying glass too.

Well, now that it is all over but the shooting, as the cowboys said to the Indians, I think it is safe to forecast a return to the two-party system.

This will come as a great relief to me, because two parties are about all I can stand, and then only if they are 30 days apart.

You may be interested to learn the real reason why the Tories failed to improve their position during Monday's voting.

It was the fault of their slogan, "Think Canadian."

Had they had the foresight to change it to "Think Canadianly" they would have won the solid adverb vote.

With the final admonition to, next time, vote as you please but vote no, leave us depart from the field of politics and discuss a certain young lady of my acquaintance and the Easter bunny.

This young lady, who is about half past four, was the focal point of a conversation Sunday which has left me worried about its possible effects on her young, impressionable mind.

It started when we were visiting that "farm" out Corvina Bay way, and the young lady was much intrigued by the assortment of bunny rabbits.

Said the young lady's mother: "Tell the Easter bunny to be sure to bring you some eggs on Sunday."

Said the young lady: "Which one is the Easter bunny?"

Said her mother: "Just tell any one of them, he'll pass the word."

So the young lady dutifully told the nearest bunny her name and address, and said she would like some chocolate eggs, please.

So far, a perfect example of the child's world of fantasy and its encouragement by adults.

But, nearly an hour later, after we had returned to town, the young lady turned to me and asked: "How will the Easter bunny get out of that pen over the big fence next Sunday?"

"You know about parachutes?" I asked.

"Parachutes are for jumping from the sky," she said.

"Well," I explained, "the Easter bunny has a parachute which operates in reverse—it goes up instead of down."

"Oh," said the young lady.

Applications should be made to Red Cross House.

Theft of three rifles from a city sporting goods store overnight Monday was reported to city police Tuesday.

Also missing was a battery lantern.

Ex-Librarian Re-Appointed To B.C. Board

Ronald Deyotte, 24, of 701 Connaught, was sentenced in city police court Monday to 42 days in prison on three charges of making false statements to the Unemployment Insurance Commission in order to obtain benefits.

He admitted in court earlier having failed to declare earnings for three weeks in November, 1962, to the commission.

He received a 14-day sentence on each charge.

Miss Margaret Clay, chief librarian at Victoria Public Library for 28 years, has been re-appointed to the Public Library Commission for a three-year term.

She has served on the commission for several years and was chairman in 1958 and 1959.

The commission promotes public library development in co-operation with other public bodies in B.C.

and provides service for those who do not have access to a local public library.

Tentative civil budget of $171,547 was endorsed Tuesday by Greater Victoria metro health board, compared with last year's budget of $158,163.

It includes grants from Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Greater Victoria school board but not Saanich, which is provided with a provincial grant for direct control over the municipal courts to the provincial government.

At the time, intermunicipal committee delegates indicated that one local ramification of the new legislation was that Esquimalt—which so far has refused to participate in the joint family court—would be ordered to provide such services by the government.

OTTAWA (CP)—New regulations to give the health department's food and drug directorate greater control over the manufacture and distribution of drugs were announced here today.

Family Court Plan Called Forward Step

Mayor R. H. Wilson today said new provincial legislation controlling Family and Juvenile Courts appear "a step forward" toward settling problems before they reach court.

He was commenting on a meeting with deputy attorney-general Dr. Gilbert Kennedy attended by representatives of all four Greater Victoria municipalities on Tuesday.

The mayor said several phases of the new legislation—giving the provincial government control of the Family Court and probation services in each B.C. municipality—were clarified.

However, some aspects, particularly costs, were left for further clarification.

CENTRAL OFFICE

The mayor indicated that one of the situations the Greater Victoria area will have to meet soon is provision of a central office and registry for the Family Court and probation services here.

He said it might be possible to enlarge the present court's quarters in the civic health and welfare centre on Cook Street instead of constructing a new building.

Additional probation services will be required for the Greater Victoria area, he indicated.

Emphasis of the probation service will be concentrated on reconciling families before they reach the point of no return of the courtroom. Efforts also will be aimed at guiding problem youngsters away from delinquency and jail sentences.

"Apart from the question of cost, I think this is a move in the right direction. It is a constructive move and the hope is that the process will reduce the number of these problems," said the mayor.

He added that in the long run it would save taxpayers dollars and help prevent waste of human resources.

Mayor Wilson said Dr. Kennedy agreed to write the four councils with further clarification of the new statute.

DIRECT CONTROL

Intermunicipal committee requested the meeting after it learned of the legislation which gives direct control over the municipal courts to the provincial government.

At the time, intermunicipal committee delegates indicated that one local ramification of the new legislation was that Esquimalt—which so far has refused to participate in the joint family court—would be ordered to provide such services by the government.

MULLIGAN RETIRES TO OAK BAY

'All That Behind Us Now,' Says Ex-Vancouver Chief

By PETE LOUDON

Former Vancouver police chief Walter Mulligan, centre of a police corruption probe in 1955, has returned from the United States to retire in Oak Bay.

Mr. Mulligan, 57, who was fired at his own request after a royal commission heard testimony linking him with graft, mismanagement and immorality, refused to discuss the case.

He told The Times: "All that is behind us now."

He and his wife, Violet, have moved into a new, split-level home on a quiet side street.

He is busy himself with a new lawn and the planting of flowering bushes.

NO SECRET

"I am making no secret of my return. But I was hoping we could be left alone," said Mr. Mulligan.

Mr. Mulligan was never charged with any offence following the report to the government of the royal commission headed by R. H. Tupper, QC.

The hearings which lasted eight months and cost more than $50,000, resulted in evidence of bribery, according to the final report.

Legal experts in the attorney-general's department said then, a royal commission was free to reach any conclusions.

But it was a different matter to take the same testimony, some of it described as heresy, and make it stand up in court.

Mr. Mulligan, who attended the hearings, but never was called to testify, moved with his wife to Los Angeles in January, 1956, before completion of the probe. (He joined the airport security force there.)

He said today: "I would certainly have come back. I was tempted to come back at the height of that thing—if I had thought it would have gained anything."

He had been placed on leave by the Vancouver police commission when the investigation began. He requested to be fired rather than resign, in order that his police pension of $75 a month would still be due him at retirement age.

Had he quit, he would have had to withdraw his pension benefits at that time, it was reported.

HASN'T CHANGED

Mr. Mulligan today appears little changed from the 220-pound "handsome Irishman" (as the press then described him) who headed the then 735-man force for 8½ years.

Quality and organization of lectures are considered to be of prime importance, and will be rated on a scale of excellent-good-fair-poor.

Professors are to be rated on lecturing, marking of essays and examinations, and classroom manner.

Students are invited to comment on the marking of examination papers, and to rate marking on a scale of unfairly hard-fair-pleasant.

Six Students Get Research Council Awards

Five Victoria students and one Duncan student have won scholarships and bursaries awarded by the National Research Council of Canada for university graduate work.

Miss V. L. Bergbusch and R. I. Kingham of Victoria have won scholarships of $2,400 each for study at Cambridge and Dundee universities respectively.

C. N. Brown, F. W. Comer and A. Lambert of Victoria have won $2,000 bursaries for study at the University of British Columbia.

Miss C. L. MacHemer of Duncan has won a scholarship of $2,400 for study at UBC.

The National Research Council granted 774 scholarships, with a total value of $1,875,000 for 1963-64. Of these, 714 were for graduate work at Canadian universities. They include 276 bursaries worth $2,000 each and 438 studentships worth $2,400 each.

Awards for study outside Canada include 29 special scholarships valued at $2,400 each. Twenty-four of these will be held in the United Kingdom and five in the United States.

Victoria radio and television stations cooperated with naval authorities to broadcast the recall call order.

Results of the recall exercise was good, according to naval officials.

Rezoning Asked For Construction Of New Church

Rezoning application for construction of a new church alongside Central Baptist Church, 833 Pandora, was made at City Hall today by C. V. Eno, church clerk. It was understood the new church would be immediately east of the present building which would be converted to a Sunday school and associated centre.

Mr. Mackenzie said it would be less conspicuous than a B.C. Telephone installation in the area but indicated he would offer a token payment—$1 a year—for the lease compared with the B.C. Telephone payment of $1,500.

GAGLARDI CALL UNDECIDED

Road Probe
'Wasteful,
Witch Hunt'

By FRANK BUTTER

The highway graft inquiry is a Roman holiday and a waste of money, Victoria Socred Waldo Skillings charged today.

He threw the inquiry into an uproar when he called it a witch hunt and said it had found out absolutely nothing.

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi also made a statement at today's hearing: a plea for a speedy conclusion because millions of dollars could be wasted if his department officials can't get back to work.

It's still undecided whether or not Mr. Gaglardi will appear as a witness. His lawyer says no; inquiry chairman Irvine Corbett (SC-Yale) says yes, if he's called, and if he refuses he could face a contempt charge.

SIXTH WEEK

What triggered this morning's outbursts was the prospect of the inquiry going into next week—it's sixth.

It had been hoped it would end before Easter, but discovery of a potential new witness could prolong it.

With frayed nerves bare, the 13 MLAs on the inquiry called it off until 9:30 a.m. Thursday giving time to contact Glen Geery in Seattle, the one-time construction manager of Project 819, around which the allegations of graft revolve.

Dief to Quit,
Capital Thinks

(Special to the Times)

OTTAWA—The national capital today is marking time until the service vote from Monday's election is counted, but all indications are that John Diefenbaker will resign as prime minister this weekend and turn the reins of government over to Liberal chieftain Lester Pearson.

These were today's significant developments:

1. Mr. Pearson said he will line up his prospective cabinet over the weekend.

2. Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson flew into Ottawa today and said that while Mr. Diefenbaker has the constitutional right to remain as prime minister, he has neither the "technical nor moral right" following his defeat at the polls. This seemed to indicate to observers that Social Credit would not give him the support he would need to stay.

3. Mr. Diefenbaker was flying back to Ottawa for a cabinet meeting Thursday when it is expected the crucial decision to surrender power will be discussed.

4. The NDP plans a caucus meeting in Vancouver to consider their strategy.

Pearson Looks
To Service Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal pect to receive results of the Leader Pearson, obviously confident he will be asked to form a government, said today he expects to make up his cabinet in three ridings—which would give the Liberals a total of 131 seats.

The ridings are Hastings South and Lambton-Kent in Ontario and Rimouski in Quebec.

Liberals said there is a possibility they will win Pontiac-Témiscamingue riding in Western Quebec.

Mr. Pearson said he hopes to go to Toronto Thursday and attend the Stanley Cup hockey playoff between the Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings.

'No Moral Right
To Hold Office'

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson flew into Ottawa early today and told reporters he feels Prime Minister Diefenbaker may have the constitutional authority to remain in power but does not have the moral or technical right to do so.

When this took place, the board again asked for an interview, and was advised that no further proposals would be considered by the premier until the usual university financial statements were available for the year ended March 31, 1963.

"Subsequent meetings of the board and sub-committees of the board have taken place. The board of governors has taken certain steps at this time, and will take such other action as it deems necessary."

The board's statement was issued following a meeting Tuesday with representatives of the faculty association, the alumni association and the alma mater society of UBC.

These meetings had been arranged several weeks ago in response to requests for information about funds available to UBC for the year 1963-64.

MEETING ENDS

SEATO Supports Laos Neutrality

PARIS (Reuters) — The eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization today ended its three-day ministerial meeting here with a communiqué reaffirming its support of a neutral and independent Laos.

The communiqué said the council hopes those in power in Laos and those nations signing last year's Geneva agreement on Laos "will succeed in ensuring the maintenance of peace, neutrality and national unity which the people of Laos so earnestly desire."

Noting that considerable progress has been achieved in the fight against Communist subversion in South Viet Nam, the council said: "One may expect a new improvement in the situation thanks to the efforts made by the government" in stopping rebellion.

"The council hopes that Viet Nam, with the support given to it, would be in a position to maintain its advance toward internal stability and international security."

The council emphasized that a "major task" facing member countries is development of effective measures to prevent and counteract subversion.

SEATO members are the United States, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, The Philippines and Thailand.

U.S. State Secretary Rusk told the final session the Communist drive on South Viet Nam has been blunted.

He said the South Vietnamese government seems to have found the right strategy in its fight against pro-Communist guerrillas and that ultimate victory is certain.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home said there is evidence the Communist Chinese and North Vietnamese have stepped up subversive activity throughout Southeast Asia.

Home told reporters the conference was "very satisfactory" and the alliance is in good shape.

The next meeting will be held in Manila next year, and will mark SEATO's 10th anniversary.

Conference sources said the SEATO ministers foresaw an easing of tension in Laos following a New China news agency announcement of a cease-fire agreement. Fighting has been reported in Laos between neutral and pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces.

The ministers re-elected Pote Sarasin of Thailand as secretary-general for the next two years. He has held the office since 1957.

Epic Voyage Planned By Adventurer, 70

NEW YORK (AP) — William Willis, still an adventurer at 70 years, proposes to sail some 10,000 to 12,000 miles across the Pacific Ocean from Callao, Peru, to Australia; with only a dog and a cat for company.

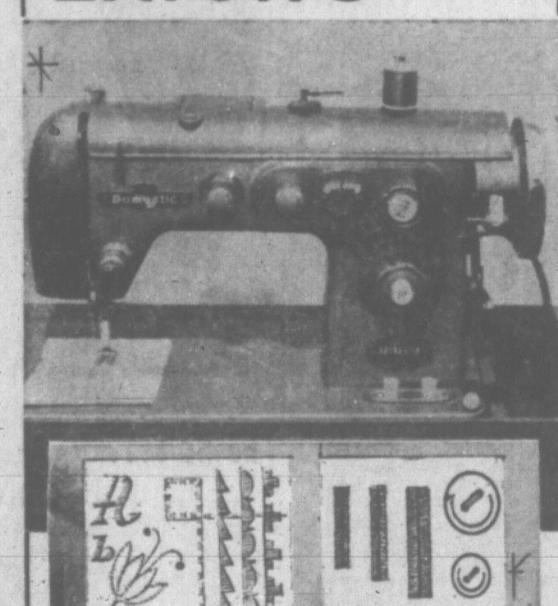

Willis, who has sailed the seas as man and boy for 53 years, won fame in 1954 by guiding a raft 6,700 miles in 115 days from Callao to Samoa.

His mileage was 1,500 greater than that recorded by six Scandinavians on the raft Kon-Tiki in 1947. He detailed his exploit in a book, The Gods Were Kind, which has been printed in 15 languages.

U.S. OFFICER SENT BOMB TO WIFE

SAIGON (AP) — A bomb that exploded in a San Francisco, Calif., post office March 18 injuring a clerk has been traced to a U.S. Army captain in South Viet Nam. The captain, stationed in Saigon, had packaged an explosive device and sent it to his wife through the army post office system. The officer is scheduled to be taken back to the United States to be placed in a mental institution.

"I don't fear the sea and I have not the slightest doubt I will succeed," he said in his hotel quarters where he lives with his wife, Tess, who is helping him prepare for the greatest challenge of his life.
